Software glitches make registration difficult, govt asks people to use the CoWIN website instead of the app to book appointments

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

ON a day the nationwide Covid-19 vaccination drive opened for people above 60 and those between 45 and 59 years with specific comorbidities, Prime Minister Narendra Modi was the first one to take the jab at the AII India Institute of Medical Sciences here.

Glitches in the CoWIN platform, which has been designed to drive the initiative, meant that most of those who wanted to register for inoculation could not do so. However, over 1.47 lakh citizens in the new category of beneficiaries still managed to take the shots on the first day of the second phase of the drive.

The Health Ministry later said the CoWIN app was meant for use only by the administrators and that the registration for vaccination has to be done through the portal. "Registration and booking for appointment for #COVID19 vaccination is to be done through #CoWIN Portal:www.cowin.gov.in. There is no #CoWIN App for beneficiary registration. The App on Play Store is for administrators only," the ministry tweeted.

About 4.27 lakh jabs were administered on Monday, 65% of whose beneficiaries were healthcare and frontline workers, who are being covered from before. Among the general citizens, 1,28,630 were in the elderly category, while 18,850 were those under 45 with comorbidities.

Though the government did not specify it, sources said most of the jabs in this category were through walk-in facilities. The Centre, however, did not make public the state-wise breakup of the vaccination figures for the day. It also did not share the breakup of shots carried out in government and private facilities.

Over 29 lakh potential beneficiaries registered on the CoWIN portal on Monday. Of them, about 26 lakh are citizens while the rest are healthcare and frontline workers. About 6.44 lakh appointments were booked by citizen beneficiaries. The total vaccination count in the country stood at 1,47,28,569 on Monday as per the provisional reports. They include 66,95,665 healthcare workers who took the first dose and 25,57,837 healthcare workers who took the second shot.

Triple whammy: Milk price, auto, BMTC fares may go up

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

PEOPLE who are already paying heavily for petrol, diesel and LPG cylinders will have to be ready to burn a bigger hole in their pocket in the near future as the State Government is planning to increase autorickshaw and BMTC bus fares and also the price of milk and milk products.

The State Government had recently revised the taxi fares by allowing operators to collect ₹75 for non-air-conditioned and ₹100 for air-conditioned cabs as the minimum charge for the first 4 km. After that, it is ₹24 per kilometre for AC cabs and ₹18 for non-AC taxis.

A senior BMTC official said that the transport corporation has proposed an 18-20 per cent increase in fares for both AC and non-AC buses. "We are seeking a hike as the diesel price has gone up and BMTC has suffered a revenue loss because of Covid. We have approached Transport Minister and Deputy CM Laxman Savadi, but he is not keen on the hike. But he assured us that he will discuss the issue with CM B S Yeddiyurappa on the quantum of hike. The decision will be taken after the budget," an official, requesting anonymity, said. Savadi, however, told TNIE categorically that the government is not intending to increase BMTC fares.

On autorickshaw fares, Transport Department Secretary Anjum Parvez said the drivers' unions are seeking an increase in the minimum fare for the first 2 km from the present ₹25 to ₹36 as the LPG price has gone up.

App issues affect vax drive in K'taka

RANJANI MADHAVAN & IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

CHAOS, anger, confusion, crowd… This was the scene at some Covid-19 vaccination centres in Bengaluru on day 1 of Phase-3 of the drive, meant for those above 60 and aged between 45 and 59 with comorbidities.

For administrators, the CoWIN portal not opening and not showing the list of registered beneficiaries was the biggest obstacle on Monday.

The 68-year-old Satyanatha Krishnappa, who has diabetes, wanted to be the first to get vaccinated when he heard the news of Phase-3.

He went to Bangalore Medical College and Research Institute, but was redirected to Vani Vilas Hospital. After finding his way to the vaccination block, he was made to sit for an hour as the staff were waiting for the green signal from higher-ups.

"Then, I took my son's help to register on CoWIN portal for vaccination at Mallige Hospital. They asked me to give my phone number and leave, as they were not prepared. I came to KC General Hospital where they asked me to wait again. The health administration has failed. They should not have started it on March 1 if they were not prepared. They should not make senior citizens run around in the hot sun," Satyanatha said, adding that he had to walk around 9 km through this ordeal.

Dr M S Anand, a dental surgeon with diabetes and blood pressure, registered online for the vaccination. However, he was made to wait from 9 am to 1 pm to get the shot at KC General Hospital.

At CV Raman General Hospital, around 10 people turned up, but left without getting vaccinated as the process never took off.

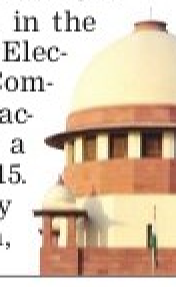
Will you wed her: SC to alleged rapist

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi



IN a shocking statement, Chief Justice of India S A Bobde on Monday asked a 23-year-old government servant whether he was ready to marry the woman who has accused him of rape.

The observation came while the court was hearing a case against Mohit Subhash Chavan, a technician in the Maharashtra State Electric Production Company Ltd, who was accused of raping a minor girl in 2014-15. He was allegedly 17-18-years-old then, and the girl was his distant relative and a student of Class 9 at the time. Last month, the Bombay High Court had cancelled the anticipatory bail granted to Chavan by a lower court, on an application filed by the girl. He had then challenged this order in the Supreme Court. During the hearing, CJI Bobde asked Chavan's lawyer, "Will you marry her?"

"You should have thought before seducing and raping the young girl. You knew you are a government servant. We are not forcing you to marry. Let us know if you will, otherwise you will say we are forcing you to marry her," the CJI said. The lawyer consulted Chavan and then told the court that he initially wanted to marry her, but the girl refused. "Now I cannot, as I am already married."

The bench granted him interim protection from arrest for four weeks, allowing him time to file for regular bail.

According to the FIR, the girl was in Class 9 when the accused started following her home from school and then one day, he forcibly entered her house and raped her.

In her complaint, the girl alleged that he threatened to throw acid on her and kill her brother if she did not consent to a sexual relationship.

SSLC examination 2020-21 will be held from June 21 to July 5, announced Primary and Secondary Education Minsiter S Suresh Kumar on Monday. This is a week's delay from the tentative timetable announced about a month ago.

The change was necessitated as the SSLC schedule clashed with the Second PU exams between May 24 and June 16, Kumar said.

Last year, there was a problem in fixing the exam date although the syllabus was completed. However this year, the syllabus had to be completed, the Primary and Secondary Education Minister added.

Workshops will be held for headmasters in each taluk to follow best practices. Kumar will meet Block Education Officers of all districts from April 2 to oversee preparations for the examination.

"Our exam centres are not battlefields but sports grounds. Students should enjoy," he told officials.

Higher than expected spectrum bids on Day-1

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

DAY one of India's first spectrum auction in five years saw substantially higher competition than expected, with the government receiving bids worth ₹77,146 crore. Analysts had expected the auctions to fetch only around ₹45,000-50,000 crore. However, while all three major telcos — Reliance Jio, Bharti Airtel, and Vodafone Idea — participated in the bidding, the premium 700 MHz and 2500 MHz bands remained without suitors.

The 700 MHz band had remained untouched during the last auctions held in 2016, with the industry finding the pricing expensive. The government consequently brought the reserve price down to ₹6,568 crore per MHz for this round from ₹11,485 crore in 2016, but industry sources say telcos consider the new prices inflated, too. And since one-third of the 2308.80 megahertz of airwaves being auctioned this round are in the 700 MHz band, the higher-than-expected bids received for the other bands still only account for a fraction of the ₹3.92 lakh crore worth assets on offer. The Communications Ministry said, "There have been bids for 849.20 MHz so far. Excluding spectrum in 700 MHz and 2500 MHz bands, this is almost 60 per cent of the spectrum put to auction."

CYBER WHISPERS

Social media: Citizens to 'spy' on citizens? Beware!

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

NEXT time you post on Facebook or Instagram, or tweet a meme about a government policy, beware! For, even if a couple of your hundreds of contacts have signed up to be a volunteer for the Ministry for Home Affairs 'Cyber Crime Volunteer Programme', they can report any post that annoys or worries them.

These ordinary citizens are being asked to judge if a post threatens -- anything from sovereignty of our nation and public order, to international relations and child rights -- and alert the national-level agency.

The volunteer programme is supposed to act as a facilitative tool between ordinary citizens and the government for the prevention of cybercrime.

Any citizen can register himself/herself under one of three categories: 'Cyber Volunteer Unlawful Content Flagger', 'Cyber Awareness Promoter', and 'Cyber Expert'. Post-registration, the individual can directly report "unlawful content" being circulated over the Internet, which presumably includes social media platforms like Facebook, Instagram and Twitter, among others.

Maitreyi Krishnan, advocate, said, "This is a violation of the fundamental right to privacy. On what basis is the government asking people to spy on each other? This will lead to all kinds of vigilantism."

Vivek Sood, senior advocate, Supreme Court and Delhi High Court, said it was a violation of the right to privacy of the citizens.

Fund crunch halts work on suburban terminal at Cantt Station

Rs 45 crore project sanctioned in 2019 hits a bump; Focus currently on completing Baiyappanahalli coaching terminal, officials say

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

WORK on the exclusive suburban terminal planned at Bengaluru Cantonment railway station to facilitate running of more local train services from the city to neighbouring areas has ground to a halt, due to non-release of funds.

The Railway Board sanctioned the new terminal in April 2019, and was intended to be in place much earlier than the dedicated Suburban Rail Project for the City with a 2026 deadline. Though it costs just Rs 45 crore and is not a huge sum by railway standards, it still needs to be allocated to the Constructions Division of South Western Railway for work to commence.

A senior railway official said, "The focus at present is on completion of the Sir M Visvesvaraiah Coaching Terminal (Baiyappanahalli Third Coaching Terminal) and funds earmarked under 'Umbrella Works' for Railways in the Union budget are set to be completely handed over for this coaching terminal as it is set for launch by March-end. No specific amount had been sanctioned in the previous year's Union budget too."

Only one tender has been awarded so far in connection with the Cantonment terminal, he added. "The tender is for carrying out earthing works in the yard area of the station which is the preliminary work before the foundation is laid. The yard needs to be developed before tracks are laid." Another official said, "We need to have enough funds before we call for other tenders and go ahead with any other work."

> The idea was to run new trains from here as well as stable a few trains here which are presently occupying space on the main line affecting operations
> Railway official

After the 148.17-km dedicated suburban rail project comprising four corridors is completed, the Cantonment terminal would be integrated with it.

"The idea was to run new trains from here as well as stable a few trains here which are presently occupying space on the main line affecting operations. The terminal was proposed as both Krantivira Sangolli Rayanna and Yesvantpur railway stations had become completely saturated (pre-covid), ruling out launch of new trains," said a top railway official. Trains to Hosur, Devanahalli, Tumakuru and Marikuppam could be run from here, he added.

According to the Detailed Project Report, the terminal would have five stabling lines and four platforms. The stabling lines will join the two main lines operating presently at Cantonment railway station.

The Supreme Court-appointed committee collects documents in connection with Dr Shivaram Karanth Layout at Govt Urdu Primary School at Medi Agrahara on Monday | EXPRESS

THE first help desk by a Supreme Court-appointed committee to gather details of the properties in Dr Shivaram Karanth Layout began functioning from Monday.

The committee members, former High Court judge Justice AV Chandrashekhar, former BDA commissioner Jayakar Jerome and former DG&IGP ST Ramesh were present at Govt Urdu Primary School at Medi Agrahara in Vaderahalli Panchayat.

The committee is collecting documents from all property owners who have carried out constructions till August 3, 2018 at the Layout.

A member told TNIE, "The response is satisfactory on the opening day. We collected documents from five residents at the spot, while many visited us with numerous doubts. By lunch time, 15 people had submitted the documents online. It would have doubled by end of day."

To spread awareness among public about these desks, banners were being put up in autos in the locality since Sunday. "We plan to do the same on buses passing through the area," he added.

The Committee estimates that around 7,500 constructions have come up in the space earmarked for the Layout. The SC wants to spare lawfully constructed layouts and the Committee's job is to identify this category.

Pedal power: NGO launches Cycle School for Women

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FOR the women who participated in a Cycle School workshop - part of a campaign to promote cycling in Bengaluru - the feeling of accomplishment was a rewarding one.

"Everyone used to tell me that I won't be able to cycle but I have done it. I didn't think I could learn cycling but I did it today for the first time. Now, I plan to keep practising on my son or daughter's cycle," said Smitha Jacob (42), a former IT employee who participated in the workshop held on Church Street on Sunday.

City-based NGO Jhatkaa and bicycle touring company 'Pedal in Tandem' have teamed up to make Bengaluru's streets cycle-friendly, especially for women. They will organise the workshops on Sundays at different locations to teach women to cycle and equip them with practical information so that they can continue to ride a bike as a hobby or use it to commute.

The workshops are part of the #BengaluruMoving campaign which aims decongest the city's roads and reduce emissions over the next few years.

Jhatka and Pedal in Tandem aim to address the hurdles that prevent girls and women from riding a bike. Barriers to taking up cycling include infrastructural challenges, lack of knowledge about the right bicycle for different body types, lack of information about appropriate clothes to wear while cycling.

Founders of Pedal In Tandem Poojya Basavaraj and Dheeraj Subramanian said there are several deterrents to people taking up cycling -- lack of safety due to pothole-ridden roads, motorists' apathy towards cyclists, lack of dedicated cycling infrastructure (lanes, parking lots), lack of knowledge or self-reliance in case of breakdowns and lack of riding skills.

They added: "For women, these deterrents are compounded by safety concerns and social stigma. We hope to break these barriers."

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You seem to have quite a good business sense, not to mention an uncanny ability to see the right way through the sort of financial maze which often confuses other people. You should understand that it's all a question of distinguishing fact from fantasy.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The key to the moment is pleasure. This doesn't mean that life should be one endless party, but that you should make a point of enjoying everything you do, including the most routine chores. It's also one of the best ways to increase your quality of life.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Some people around you seem far too lively at the moment, but they're living in the past, not the present. It's about time they woke up and realised that the correct question to ask is: 'where do we go from here?' If a dialogue is necessary then it may be up to you to get it going.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You must understand that once you have got your own way a certain number of times, it is up to you to encourage others to take first place. The difficulty is judging when it is the best moment to make the switch and, for this, an impeccable sense of timing is now required.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Not everything is as it appears. In fact, surprising as it may seem, to some people, your sense of self-esteem can suffer as much as anybody's. Now is a good moment to look at ways in which family members have eroded your confidence, even unintentionally, and do something about it.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
There are right decisions and there are wrong decisions. Sometimes there is a grey area in the middle, but at the moment the choices seem to be polarised, and you may have to come off the fence and commit yourself. Some people would say that it's about time!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
It's all very well imagining that you can compromise for ever, but if you don't act to secure your happiness, nobody else will. Romantically, it's up to you to take the initiative as soon as possible. There may be hidden costs, but that's always a risk.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
If you're planning activities for the future, go for anything which is guaranteed to be sociable. Bear in mind that as the months pass your desires will change, and what makes sense now will be very different indeed, so build in a little flexibility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
It looks as if you are about to reach a point of no return professionally, or in any major ambition, even a leisure activity, which is designed to secure praise and recognition. It all now depends on what you know, and you can no longer rely on personal contacts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The very fact that your planetary aspects are so few and far between is enough to convince anyone that what is important now is that you begin to shape your own future. Start to make long-term plans, allowing daily details to sort themselves out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There are strong suggestions that your social life is set for some improvements. This time around, a friend or acquaintance is also due to boost your financial prospects. Be prepared to take the lead. No point in sitting at home waiting for the phone to ring.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The emphasis in emotional relationships is now moving on. You are bound to feel more intense but, at a superficial level, money could also be a pressing issue. It's vitally important to determine who is responsible for what, in all joint financial connections.

On-spot vaccination registration soon: Health Commissioner

Those not tech-savvy will find it difficult to register for vaccination: Senior citizen; beneficiaries allege some vaccination officers were clueless about the process

IFFATH FATHIMA & RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

ON day 1 of Phase-3 of the vaccination drive on Monday, Health and Family Welfare Commissioner Dr Thrilok Chandra said, "Soon, we will start spot registration in Bengaluru as well. On Monday, six vaccination sites in Bengaluru had issues resulting in a slow start. Some sites did not start the drive. But in other districts, the process was smooth. Issues will be addressed soon."

A 65-year-old woman from Whitefield waited for three hours at KC General Hospital before returning home without the jab on day 1 of Phase-3 of the vaccination drive on Monday. "Vaccination officers were clueless and told me that they have still not got information from health officials as to when to start the drive. They said the vaccines hadn't come," she said.

At BMCRI, vaccination officers were all set to start the process at Comprehensive Hemophilia Care Centre, but they did not receive login credentials for the portal from BBMP and could not start the process. The 70-year-old Vasudev Murthy from Banashankari said, "I came for spot registration but the vaccination did not even begin. They asked me to register online and come tomorrow. Those who are not tech-savvy will find it difficult."

In the afternoon, instead of waiting for the portal to open, Medical Superintendent of KC General Hospital BR Venkateshaiah spoke to officials and started vaccinating those who had registered online.

Some felt that a dry run could have been done. There was confusion as the government announced the drive was between 12 pm and 5 pm, while CoWIN stated it was from 9 am to 6 pm. In Mysuru, though the centres were equipped to inoculate close to 1,000 people, 294 got the jab.

In Mangaluru, 39 senior citizens took the vaccine at Wenlock District Hospital. Forty had registered, but it could not be administered to one as he did not furnish proper documents.

CoWIN glitches were reported in Madikeri too. MLA KG Bopaiah, after taking the jab at a Virajpet Hospital, exhorted senior citizens to go for vaccination. In Udupi district, 85 people aged over 60 took the vaccination at five sites. Former RS member Dr Prabhakar Kore, MLA Anil Benake, former MLA Vishwanath Patil and Congress leader V S Sadhunavar were prominent among those who received the jab in Belagavi. In Kalaburagi, 28 senior citizens, 29 healthcare and five frontline workers were vaccinated.

Launching the drive from Sirsi for Uttara Kannada district, Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar said sufficient vaccine doses are available in the state and there is no cause for worry about side-effects.

I feel safer after jab: 102-yr-old

IFFATH FATHIMA & RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

A 102-year-old retired Indian Army officer from Bengaluru was one of the oldest people to get the jab in Karnataka on Monday, when the nationwide immunisation of the elderly and people with comorbidities began.

Subramanian K N (102), a retired Army officer, who got his shot at Columbia Asia Hospital in Hebbal said, "I decided to take it as I'm in the vulnerable group and don't want to spread the infection. I wasn't afraid because in the past, I had been prepared to face bullets too. I have had a healthy life so far and now I feel even safer."

Over 1,576 people above 60 years got their first dose of the vaccine across the state. Districts such as Mysuru (285), Bengaluru Urban (170), Ballari (168), and Uttara Kannada (120) saw better turn out compared other parts of the state.

Retired director of projects at Intelsat, a satellite communication provider, Ramaswami Parthasarathy (97), was the first to get vaccinated at Manipal Hospitals. "I was not hesitant as I have worked as a scientist and am a strong believer of science. As I'm a senior citizen and have blood pressure (issues), I registered in the morning and took the jab around 2 pm. I had no side-effects and I feel safe now. People should learn to dispel worries as the future cannot be predicted," he said.

Bannerghatta resident Hemagandhi (71) said, "I got myself registered on Arogya Setu at Fortis Hospital, Bannerghata Road around 5 pm. By 5.50 pm I was vaccinated. Initially, I was a little scared, but now I feel, we must get vaccinated to be safe. I came with my 67-year-old brother and his 64-year-old wife. We had no side-effects and are satisfied with the process."

A 62-year-old who came to KC General Hospital, said she registered on the Co-WIN portal and was vaccinated half-an-hour later. She said she never thought the process would be so smooth.

Inder Neel Singh (54), employed at a manufacturing unit, said he waited at Aster CMI Hospital for two hours to get his shot. "As I had diabetes, I decided to get vaccinated and came with my 87-year-old father. The overall process was smooth."

From now on, registrations will be done a day in advance, said Dr Firozahmad H Torgal, deputy chief of medical services at Columbia Asia Hospital in Yeshwanthpur. People must register on Co-WIN 2.0, not the earlier version of the app.

"After about five days, walk-in registration will be allowed. However, it is better to go through the Co-WIN portal in a place like Bengaluru, so that is effectively implemented. Otherwise, it will be a mess as we have to ensure that the vaccine is not wasted," Dr Firozahmad said.

HARD ROUTE TO HEALTHCARE

1,700 deliveries on the move in 108 ambulances

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

IN the last 14 months, 1,740 babies have been delivered in the State-run 108 Arogya Kavacha emergency response ambulances. This means at least four babies are delivered every day in the ambulances.

"Every month more than 150 babies are delivered in our ambulances. Nearly 35 to 40 per cent of the calls we get are related to pregnancy. We have delivered babies in ambulances not only in remote villages that are far from hospitals but also from urban areas due to terrible roads or traffic-related issues," explains Mohammed Aasif, Programme Manager- 108 ambulances Bengaluru District.

The free emergency service which is used for various medical emergencies has in its ambulances a ready delivery kit. The Staff Nurse, also known as Emergency Medical Technician (EMT), is compulsorily present in the ambulance. He/she is given training under the General Nursing's MidWifery course (3.5 years). Interestingly, while the state has more than 1,000 such EMTs, the majority of them are male.

A 108 ambulance staffer holds a newborn baby right after its delivery

According to the statistics available with 108, the districts which have the maximum number of deliveries in the ambulances are Ballari, Raichur and Kalaburagi.

"We receive calls mostly very late, and when the woman goes into intense labour. The deliveries take place on the way to hospitals. But we make sure the new mother and the baby are safe," said Yogesh, EMT from Bengaluru.

Recalling an incident, Yogesh said, "When Yamuna, 21-year-old domestic help from Nepal, reported labour pain, her husband Sunil found with great difficulty a Kannadiga who could communicate to an 108 ambulance. The ambulance immediately reached her residence. I was about a year and half into this service and tried my best to comfort her. But she was in terrible pain."

"The hospital was at least 40 minutes away. Considering the traffic situation, I had to conduct the delivery in the ambulance with the assistance of the ambulance pilot (driver). She gave birth to a healthy, beautiful baby girl," said Yogesh.

According to Suresh, an ambulance pilot, in rural areas, there are ASHA workers to help the woman and convince her to go for delivery, even if the EMT is a male. But, in urban areas, it becomes a bit of an issue, he said.

The number of babies delivered in ambulances, according to the health department officials, has reduced infant mortality rate. They, however, say this is not a good trend. "This shows that our medical facilities are not accessible to many. Hospitals located far away, bad PHCs, lack of information about labour pain etc have been the primary reasons for such deliveries. But 108 services and nurses in the ambulances are doing a great job," said a senior doctor.

Clashes broke out between two groups during a kabaddi tournament in Bhadravathi on Sunday night. K'taka BJP cadre pack bags, to hit poll trail in South states

Teams from State unit to work on campaign strategies, work with local leaders in Kerala, Tamil Nadu, Puducherry where party hopes to make inroads

ASHWINI M SRIPAD
@ Bengaluru

AHEAD of Assembly elections in Tamil Nadu, Kerala and Puducherry in April, at least 200 party workers from the Karnataka unit of the Bharatiya Janata Party will be shifting base to these states for about a month, to draw up strategies, campaign and carry out other poll-related work. Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa and his cabinet ministers will be part of the high-profile team which will hop across the states on day-long campaigns.

Since Karnataka is the first state in South India where the BJP won power, a number of leaders and cadre who worked here will also take part.

BJP National General Secretary C T Ravi, who is in-charge of Tamil Nadu, is already busy campaigning in the neighbouring state.

With the Assembly session due to start in Karnataka, Ravi was in Bengaluru on Monday. He told The New Indian Express that he will not attend the session unless there is a whip. Instead, he will be in Tamil Nadu, a state where the BJP hopes to make inroads.

"Teams and netas from Karnataka will be visiting Tamil Nadu for poll-related work. Once we finalise the constituencies, we will prepare a schedule for these leaders to visit," he said, hinting that Yediyurappa will probably campaign for just one day.

"These leaders will be focusing on border towns like Hosur, Ooty and other places," Ravi said.

However, the dates are not yet decided.

Senior BJP leader and Member of Legislative Council N Ravikumar said party workers and leaders will stay in the poll-bound states and Union Territory till a couple of days before the election. "They will fan out across the election-bound states and work with local BJP leaders. The services of MLAs and ministers who are well-versed in the local language will be used. BJP is in power in Karnataka and will win the other states too," Ravikumar added.

Union Minister Pralhad Joshi, Deputy Chief Minister C N Ashwath Narayan and Karkala MLA Sunil Kumar are in-charge of Kerala, while Rajya Sabha MP from Karnataka Rajeev Chandrashekar has been deputed to Puducherry. BJP Youth Morcha National President Tejasvi Surya will also be travelling across these states.

Meanwhile, BJP state unit sources said that once the candidates are finalised, a time-table will be framed for Karnataka BJP MLAs, MLCs and MPs, State and Union ministers.

"The Karnataka legislature session will begin this week and is expected to go on for a month. We cannot send all MLAs or MLCs at a time, they will go based on their availability and other factors," sources said.

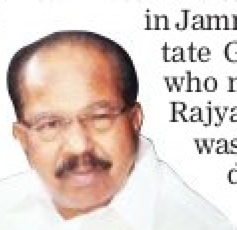
Moily: Not part of G23 grouping; why party issues coming up in public places?

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FORMER Union Law Minister Veerappa Moily on Monday sought to distance himself from Congress G-23 who met in Jammu on Saturday. Moily firmly said, "I am not part of that group. But I am concerned about the inner-party issues surfacing in a public space. It should not affect the party's morale." The former CM said he completely backs Rahul Gandhi for the party president's post.

Moily was part of a grouping of Congress leaders who wrote to party interim president Sonia Gandhi in August last year asking for a visible and full-time leader to head the Congress party nationally as Rahul had resigned and she was holding the post only in an interim capacity. He said the letter was not meant to embarrass the party, but only to strengthen it through reforms and organisational elections. "It was interpreted as a challenge to the leadership of Sonia and Rahul, but it is not true. We are all with them, and we are not against them," he said.

He said, "I don't think we regret it. The letter issue is over and there is no point in pursuing it. We have given the memorandum and it was a perfectly legitimate demand. It was aimed at strengthening the party, which is an ongoing exercise and not a one-time process." He said the G-23 meeting in Jammu was only to felicitate Ghulam Nabi Azad, who retired recently as a Rajya Sabha member. "It was not a move aimed at dissension or rebellion within the party," he added. "As there are concerns about Sonia's health, it will be good if Rahul, who is actively involved in politics, returns and assumes charge as Congress president," he said.



On the perception that Congress is weakening, he said that whenever one party starts winning, the other party appears weak. That is the case with Congress and BJP too. When Congress starts winning, the BJP will appear weak, he reasoned. "The Congress has the potential to bounce back and come to power, and it will," he said.

CONGRESS TO START JANA DHWANI YATRA TOMORROW

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Congress is gearing up to face the next assembly polls which are scheduled to be held in 2023.

As part of its strategy, it will start its Jana Dhwani (People's voice) padayatra on Wednesday in 100 constituencies where it had lost in the 2018 polls. Most of these seats were represented by ministers then.

Chamundeshwari, from where the then CM Siddaramaiah himself lost, will be one of the constituencies to be covered.

The padayatra will kick-off at Devanahalli, on the outskirts of Bengaluru, and end at Chikkaballapur. The party hopes to cover the 100 constituencies in one year's time.

On Monday, Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee president D K Shivakumar visited a famous temple in Mulbagal, at an auspicious hour to seek divine intervention for this ambitious drive. According to Vastu beliefs, Mulbagal and the temple represent Deva Moole and therefore Shivakumar visited the shrine. Deva Moole or northeast represents God and hence is considered sacred, as per Vastu beliefs.

"The former chief minister SM Krishna had come here to pray when he started his campaign. I have prayed for the prosperity of the state in all areas considering that this is the starting point," Shivakumar said.

He also garlanded the statue of Baba Saheb Ambedkar while his supporters raised slogans.

The padayatra seems to have some significance. They party came to power in 2013 after it carried out a padayatra to Ballari against illegal mining, and there are several votaries of padayatra within the Congress.

Speaking to the media, the state Congress chief said they will visit the constituencies across the state.

Meanwhile, the Congress Legislature Party will hold its meeting on Thursday at 9 am where among the participants will be the office-bearers -- Shivakumar, working presidents Eshwar Khandre, Ramlinga Reddy, Saleem Ahmed, Satish Jarkiholi and Dhruva Narayana. The meeting will be crucial as the party will take stock of its strengths and weaknesses.

'Not violated norms on Mayadayi'

ENS @ Belagavi

WATER Resources Minister Ramesh Jarkiholi on Monday denied that Karnataka has violated regulations concerning the sharing of Mahadayi river waters. His statement comes in the wake of the Supreme Court forming a joint monitoring committee to look into the complaints by Goa that Karnataka is diverting Mahadayi waters to Malaprabha.

"The apex court has sought a spot inspection as Goa has levelled the allegations. But Karnataka has not violated any rules or conditions laid down by the court. A detailed project report is ready. Permission from the Central Water Commission is needed to go ahead with the project and work will commence after we get the nod," he said, adding that the State is confident of getting justice in the report to be submitted by the committee. He said Union Minister for Jal Shakti Gajendra Singh Shekhawat is expected to hold a joint meeting with water resources ministers of Karnataka and Goa. "We expect to resolve the dispute through healthy talks," he added.

Jarkiholi also said preparations are on to develop Gokak Falls as an international tourist destination. A glass bridge will be built over the waterfalls similar to those in China and the US, he added.

Dhruvanarayan, Sait submit reports to DKS

ENS @ Mysuru

NARASIMHARAJA MLA Tanveer Sait and KPCC working president R Dhruvanarayan have submitted two separate reports to party state president D K Shivakumar on the recent Mysuru mayoral polls fiasco which has caused a rift in the state Congress leadership.

The Congress and the JDS had joined hands to stop the BJP from taking control of the Mysuru City Corporation in the mayoral polls last week. While the JDS bagged the mayor's post, Congress settled for deputy mayor. This enraged former CM Siddaramaiah, who hit out at Sait for the tie-up with JDS and demanded that the KPCC serve a notice to him.

Sait has now submitted a five-page report to the party bosses giving details of the circumstances that led to the alliance. The legislator has maintained that the move has enhanced the image of the Congress. Sait returned to Mysuru without meeting Shivakumar as the latter had left Bengaluru to attend a puja at a temple in Kolar district, sources said.

Meanwhile, Dhruvanarayan has submitted a four-page report to Shivakumar. Dhruvanarayan, who was the party's observer for the mayoral polls, held a marathon meeting with Sait, former Mayors Arif Hussian and Ayub Khan and other leaders to elicit their opinion.

He also held talks with Siddaramaiah. He clarified that it was nothing personal as it was a decision taken at the local level by Congress corporators and leaders to stop BJP from capturing power in the civic body.

As deadline nears, Panchamasali leaders prepare for hunger strike

Panchamasali seer Sri Jaya Mruthyunjaya Swami and others protest in Freedom Park on Monday demanding reservation under the 2A category | KPN

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH a day to go before their deadline to the government expires, the Panchamasali Lingayat community members, who are on protest demanding reservation under Category-2A, are making preparations for their hunger strike from March 4.

The protesters, who have camped at Freedom Park, had undertaken a 700-km-long march from Kudalasangama, led by religious leaders like Jaya Mruthunjaya Swami and Vachanananda Swami.

Vijayanand Kashappanavar, who has been at the forefront of the protest, said, "Do I need reservation for myself, or my children? Definitely not. I am doing this for the community."

Kashappanavar had been criticised by Mines and Geology Minister Murugesh Nirani, who had remarked that the protest was being led by the Congress. He claimed Nirani had turned against them after he was made a minister.

Meanwhile, religious heads of the Vokkaliga community met in Bengaluru on Monday evening and discussed the issue of reservation for the community. Nirmalanandanatha Swamiji of Adichunchanagiri Mutt and others were present.

Bring back Anugraha scheme for shepherds or will protest, says Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

LEADER of Opposition in the Assembly Siddarmaiah on Monday issued an ultimatum to Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa to reinstate his flagship Anugraha scheme.

Ahead of the State budget session, the former CM said he would protest in the Assembly if the the State Government, which has allegedly stopped the scheme for the last two years, did not reinstate it. The scheme introduced by Siddarmaiah during his government was aimed at providing financial assistance of ₹5,000 for the accidental death of sheep and goats to sheep rearers and ₹10,000 assistance for the accidental death of cattle for cattle owners.

Joining a protest organised by sheep rearers demanding the reinstating of the scheme, Siddarmaiah said Yediyurappa wasn't even aware of such a scheme. "For two years now, the BJP government has stopped this scheme that helps poor cowherds and shepherds. The government hasn't paid pending dues of ₹30 crore. When I raised this issue in the Assembly, the CM didn't even know of such a scheme. Even after officials apprised him there has been no change," he rued.

Former CM Siddaramaiah addresses a protest organised by sheep and goat rearers in Bengaluru on Monday | VINOD KUMAR T

The former CM, who was caught on the backfoot over the Kurubas' demand for ST status, hopes to raise the issue that will hugely impact people from his Kuruba community.

Siddarmaiah, however, insisted that people from all castes and communities were onto sheep and goat rearing now. "Not just Kurubas. People from various communities rear sheep and goats. It isn't limited to one community," he said, adding that the assistance amount would be doubled if Congress came to power.

He had even written a letter to Yediyurappa demanding that the scheme be reinstated. The Congress has alleged that the government has continuously attempted to derail one flagship scheme after another ever since it came to power.

For Siddaramaiah, the fight for the Anugraha scheme that benefits shepherds, is largely an attempt to minimise damage and criticisms from within the community after he chose not to participate in the Kuruba convention demanding ST status in February. He chose to stay away from the convention to keep his image, as a backward classes leader instead of only a Kuruba leader, intact.

HC junks plea on loan repayment offer

Imposes cost; Bench says appropriate for FinMin, RBI to rethink One-Time Settlement Scheme

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

NOTING that it is rather strange that banks lend money without tangible security and offer to receive a portion of it under the One Time Settlement (OTS) scheme, the Karnataka High Court said it is appropriate for the Ministry of Finance and RBI to take a relook at the scheme.

Justice PS Dinesh Kumar made this observation while dismissing a petition filed by Balkishan Boob (69) from Rajajinagar in Bengaluru, against the Bank of Maharashtra, Basavanagudi branch, and also imposed costs.

Bhagwan Cotton Ginners Private Limited had borrowed money from Bank of Maharashtra in 2014, and on failing to repay, the bank had initiated recovery proceedings. The mortgaged property was put up for auction, and Boob, the owner, filed a petition to consider the OTS option.

Referring to his counsel's contention that OTS will have to be considered only on the ledger balance, as on the date of Non-Performing Assets (NPA) declaration, the court said if this contention is to be accepted, any borrower or guarantor may choose to repay at leisure several years after declaration of NPA, and this is an antithesis of economic progress.

"Logically, this is preposterous because banks deal with money belonging to depositors. Waiver of a portion of money lent by whatever name it is called, directly results in inflation and will have an adverse impact on the economic health of the nation," the court observed.

The counsel for the petitioner argued that under the OTS scheme, the petitioner is liable to pay 70 per cent on the secured portion and 35 per cent on the unsecured portion.

To this, the court questioned why a borrower is permitted to pay only 70 per cent on the secured portion and the remaining 30 per cent is waived. This means that borrowers are absolved by paying only 70 per cent value.

The petitioner was directed to pay cost of Rs 1 lakh to the bank, and Rs 1 lakh in the name of the HC Registrar General.

Student jumps to death at college campus

MANJU SHETTAR @Bengaluru

TENSION gripped the Bangalore Institute of Technology campus on KR Road near VV Puram on Monday after a 21-year-old engineering student allegedly ended his life by jumping from the seventh floor of the college building.

After the incident, students started protesting outside the college, accusing the management of not giving enough time to prepare for the exams.

The student, Jayanth K Reddy, who scored 92% marks in the PU boards, was a second-year engineering student in Computer Science and lived in Doddabommasandra with his family.

Police said the incident took place at 9.30 am when Reddy came out of his classroom. He had come to the college to submit his lab reports, but ended his life after leaving a suicide note at the spot. VV Puram police rushed to the spot, spoke to the management and dispersed the crowd. The body was taken to Kempegowda Institute of Medical Sciences for postmortem.

A police officer said Reddy in the suicide note mentioned that he was depressed, in a lot of mental pain, and that he was looking for an exit. He also mentioned that he wanted to accomplish many things in life, but it was not possible, and that he held no one responsible for his death.

Based on the note, a case of unnatural death has been registered and investigation is on.

He had reportedly run away from home once and his parents found him and sent him for counselling.

Subramanya Reddy, Jayanth's father, told TNIE, "He left the house around 7 am after breakfast. He took the Metro to go to college since it reopened. He hadn't shared his problems with either my wife Nagaratna or with me. He studied till 2 am everyday. I used to advise him not to strain himself while studying. He did not complain about the college authorities over any issue. I also do not blame anyone. I do not have allegations against the college management. I had noticed that my son was an introvert for a few months and was not talking with anyone."

TN parties: Gap between polls and results too long

During meet with poll CEO, they seek revision of election dates

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

Chief Electoral officer Satyabrata Sahoo at the meeting in Chennai on Monday

THE gap between polling and counting in Tamil Nadu is too long, many political parties told Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) Satyabrata Sahoo on Monday, and sought for the election dates to be revised.

They also raised other issues, such as giving up the idea of postal ballot facilities for voters above the age of 80 years, and enforcing stringent measures to check bribery of voters.

At an all-party meeting convened by the CEO, the AIADMK's Pollachi V Jayaraman said the Election Commission (EC) should explain how it will ensure people above the age of 80 don't vote twice - from home and from polling booths. If changes are made in nomination forms, Form A or Form B, political parties should be intimated, he said, adding that the CEO promised to conduct a two-day special campaign to issue ID cards to new voters. The CEO also said voters can download their voter's ID cards from the internet.

DMK's RS Bharathi pointed out that the long gap between the polling and counting dates in Tamil Nadu was unnecessary. "The political situations in the five States going to polls are very different. A uniform counting date is understandable for Parliamentary elections, but is unnecessary now, and will leave room for irregularities. Further, it is being reported that counting will be done at a common place in all districts. This would also make things difficult," he said.

NCP State president GP Sarathy wondered why the elections in Tamil Nadu were scheduled so early. "Why are the elections in West Bengal - where the law and order situation is not satisfactory — in the last phase? And why is Tamil Nadu — where the law and order situation is satisfactory - in the first phase? The Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) have to be protected for about a month, and political parties too should keep vigil over them," he added.

All India Trinamool Congress representative Kalaivanan too demanded that the gap between polling and counting be reduced. Veerapandian, from the CPI, said election rules should be implemented without any bias, even for the Prime Minister or Union Home Minister. "The EC rules were violated in Bihar. Such violations should not be allowed in Tamil Nadu," he said.

Surendran, K'taka Dy CM call on Cardinal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kochi

AIMING to woo the Christian voters in the state, BJP state president K Surendran and Karnataka Deputy Chief Minister C N Ashwath Narayan on Monday paid a visit to Cardinal Mar Alencherry, the head of Syro-Malabar Church and the president of the Kerala Catholic Bishops' Council. The meeting took place at the Pastoral Orientation Centre in Palarivattom.

With assembly elections only a month away, the meeting assumes significance but Surendran told mediapersons that it was just a courtesy call and had nothing to do with polls or politics. "We didn't discuss election-related issues with the Cardinal. It was a private meeting," he said.

Separately, Narayan, who is overseeing the BJP's election campaign in Kerala, met the Cardinal. He also shared a picture from the meeting with Cardinal on social media. After the visit, Narayan told mediapersons that the NDA expects the cooperation of the Church in the upcoming elections.

TDP chief and Opposition leader N Chandrababu Naidu staging a sit-in protest inside the Tirupati airport on Monday | EXPRESS

Naidu stages protests for nearly 10 hours in Tirupati airport

Tirupati: Opposition leader and TDP Chief N Chandrababu Naidu Monday staged a protest in the Tirupati airport lounge for nearly 10 hours after he was denied permission to visit Tirupati and Chittoor towns where his party was scheduled to hold demonstrations. High drama prevailed in the airport with the police preventing Naidu from coming out of the airport. The TDP had announced protests in the two towns against the alleged excesses and attacks by ruling party leaders against its candidates contesting in the Tirupati and Chittoor Municipal Corporations.

'Reopening of class 1 to 5 will take time'

THE minister said that if everything had gone according to plan, Class 1 to 5 would have started from March 1. But it has been delayed as there has been a spurt in Covid cases in Karnataka and five other states. More time is needed to decide on reopening of these grades, he added.

Though there is just 10 days difference between the last SSLC examination and the start of the next academic year, he assured the students that there will be sufficient holidays. While exams are on, other students will have vacation. The department is still finalising the number of days students will get for summer vacation, he added.

Withdraw cybercrime volunteer programme, experts urge govt

"THESE volunteers can be said to be the informers of the Big Brothers (George Orwell's 1984) alias the law enforcement agencies," Vivek Sood, senior advocate, Supreme Court and Delhi High Court, said.

Meanwhile, the Internet Freedom Foundation has written to the MHA, urging it to withdraw the programme immediately. The Foundation has stated that the offences included in the scope of this programme in the 'National Cyber Crime Reporting Portal' are already cognizable and can be reported to the police by any person. Therefore, there is confusion as to the necessity of this programme, it said.

"Under the programme, I4C (The Indian Cyber Crime Coordination Centre) and the MHA have allowed a person to register as a 'Cyber Volunteer Unlawful Content Flagger' without fulfilling the requirement of any prior verification (KYC). Since no verification is required and the nature of the position itself is voluntary, it absolves the I4C and the MHA of any liability or guilt in cases of misuse," the Foundation said.

Dr A Nagarathna, assistant professor, NLSIU, said, "The programme has been launched without having any underlying legal framework or Standard Operating Procedure in place which would regulate the functioning of this programme and define its parameters. In the absence of such a framework, the possibility of misuse and arbitrariness increases."

HC to oversee probe against top cop

HARISH MURALI @Chennai

THE Madras High Court on Monday took suo motu cognizance of the recent complaint of sexual harassment made by a woman IPS officer against a top police official.

Though the case was widely reported, and even a Government Order named the accused, the High Court has restrained the Press from naming him. It warned of initiating contempt proceedings if the accused or complainant is named.

The court said it would monitor the investigations conducted by the Crime Branch-Criminal Investigation Department (CB-CID), which has registered an FIR in the case.

The State government had also ordered a probe by a committee headed by a senior IAS officer.

Justice N Anand Venkatesh noted, "Considering the sensitivity of the issue and the ensuing elections... No statements must be given by such parties in the media, touching upon the merits of this case."

The court also emphasised, "The name of the victim officer, the accused person and the witnesses shall not be used or exchanged through any media, pending investigation in this case."

The judge observed that if an officer thinks he can use his power and connections to escape after committing any act, the court would not be a mute spectator but would step in and ensure the rule of law is preserved.

HC sets aside JMFC orders against 4 firms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has set aside the JMFC orders in Gokak (Belagavi district), taking cognisance of the offences under the Legal Metrology Act against four companies over alleged violation of packaging rules and non-production of documents.

Justice P Krishna Bhat allowed the petitions filed by PJ Margo Private Limited and its Managing Director, Nestle India Limited and its directors and manufacturers, Reckitt Benckiser (India) Private Limited and its Managing Director, Mahindra and Mahindra Limited and its Managing Director and directors. However, Justice Bhat said that it is open for the JMFC to apply his judicial mind afresh on the complaint as observed in the order and take proper decision in accordance with law.

The petitioners had moved the high court against the cognisance taken against them by the Principal Civil Judge and JMFC under Section 31 and 36 of the Legal Metrology Act, 2009 in June 2020 based on a complaint filed by the inspector of Legal Metrology, Gokak Sub Division.

Manga, anime led to interest in Japanese: Diplomat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE global popularity of manga and anime have contributed to the increased interest in the Japanese language among people in the city, said Akiko Sugita, Consul-General of Japan in Bengaluru. "We have witnessed an increase in interest in the Japanese language, in the period leading up to 2019. The number of examinees who took the Japanese Language Proficiency Test (JLPT) has doubled," she said during the concluding ceremony of Japan Habba on Sunday. There has also been an increase in participation in cultural events hosted by the Consulate General of Japan in Bengaluru, she added.

Sugita attributed the global interest in studying the Japanese language to interest in manga and anime.

Economic relations between Japan and Karnataka have flourished. Japanese companies have continued to expand from having 155 sites in 2010 to 534 sites in 2019, she added.

"Japan Industrial township has been established in Tumakuru district. To further acceleration of Japanese companies in Karnataka, the state government and Japan Chamber of Commerce and Industry formulated a framework of discussion to resolve issues pertaining to investment from Japan," she added.

She hoped that the direct flight between Bengaluru and Tokyo, operational in March, would lead to a greater influx of personnel exchange, promotion of Indo-Japan cooperation and tourism expansion.

Sugita said that despite the pandemic, people-to-people exchange between Japan and people in Karnataka had continued.

Milk price hike inevitable: KMF sources

"WE will decide the exact amount after the calculation and it will happen soon," he said.

Karnataka has 14 milk unions and each pays a different procurement price to farmers. Dairy farmers are seeking ₹40 per litre from the existing ₹31 to ₹34.

KMF Chairman Balachandra Jarkiholi said that the unions are under loss and farmers are in distress because of Covid.

"In 2020, we had increased the milk price from ₹35 to ₹37 per litre of milk and ₹39 to ₹41 per litre of curd. Unions give the fixed procurement price, while the government gives additional incentives. For example, the Bengaluru Urban Milk Federation pays ₹26 per litre, while the government gives ₹5. We are insisting that Unions increase the procurement price by ₹2. Every month, the State Government spends ₹100 crore on incentives," he added.

KMF sources said that the price hike is inevitable. "Though farmers are demanding ₹40 per litre, we are planning an increase of ₹2-3 per litre," a KMF source said.

WHEN GOVT BECOMES THE JUDGE, JURY AND EXECUTIONER

Not so long ago, Prime Minister Narendra Modi in his speech to the Lok Sabha sought to dissuade fellow parliamentarians and through them the people at large on the pitfalls of leaving all levers of governance, including the running of enterprises, to those who happen to clear the Indian Civil Services. He was warning us against our over-dependence on the old babu culture. But just weeks later, his own government has notified a bureaucracy-driven digital regulation framework — the Information Technology (Intermediary Guidelines and Digital Media Ethics Code) Rules, 2021. Yes, quite a mouthful. And yes, regulation of some sort was required, no two ways about it. But what we seem to have got in our quest to rid ourselves of fake news, trolls, incendiary content and hate mail is a rather cumbersome, three-tier control mechanism.

Who would the final adjudicator be in this overarching structure? Who else but a committee of babus! This is the grievance redressal part. Who can grieve? Just about anybody. Despite our usually nice sounding IT Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad's suave assurances, this could easily become an institutionalised way to outrage, rather than regulate. Forget self-regulation, the so-called norm till now. The government will be the jury and judge. In which democracy does the government assign itself this role? Where does that leave our freedoms — of the press, of expression itself? With 'compliance officers' entrenched with law enforcement agencies becoming the order of the day, it's curtains on your end-to-end encryption on WhatsApp, Signal, Telegram — those fancy messaging apps that suddenly made local very vocal, and threatened to go global. Or your 'only for friends' videos on Facebook or Instagram.

Better think twice before putting out a tweet. If anyone decides to be offended or hurt, now a new framework will kick in, along with the old book. For digital news media and OTT (over-the-top), the freedom to explore is over. Look over your shoulder, between the lines.

VACCINATION DRIVE ENTERS CRUCIAL PHASE

After covering over 1.15 crore healthcare professionals and frontline workers, the Centre has further expanded the nationwide Covid-19 vaccination drive by bringing in new priority groups under its ambit. Everyone above 60 years and 45-plus people with co-morbidities can now receive the jab beginning March 1, which is a very welcome move. To make it seamless, the Union government has further decentralised the vaccination process by taking on board the private hospitals. This will not only open the doors to vaccinate more and more people and protect the vulnerable groups, but also help break the virus chain. The Centre has already set the price for vaccine shot in private hospitals and created a protocol. With over 97% recoveries from Covid-19, India currently appears to be at a comfortable place.

By now, more people in the country have received the jab than the total number of coronavirus cases. But going forward could be a stiff challenge for the Centre as well as States which are required to push the vaccination exercise. The first two phases of vaccination have not exactly yielded the success government would have liked to see. The first dose vaccination of healthcare workers achieved a 76.6% rate whereas the second has recorded a 62.2% footfall. In case of frontline workers, the vaccination rate has been 47.7% so far. This certainly points at resistance to vaccines, which is worrying but understandable at the same time. The healthcare and frontline workers are not exactly convinced which is why some states have had to adopt a tough stand against those displaying hesitation. Under such circumstances, mobilising people above 60 and those who are 45-plus will take some effort because the numbers are going to be big and spread over a large heterogeneous landscape while the comorbidities protocol presents itself as a complex one.

Amidst all this is the worrying resurgence of cases in a few states including Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu, and new strains of the virus being reported across the globe. Both the Centre and state governments have to put their heads together to thrash out the course forward which will be an uphill road indeed.

Must digital mediums pay newsgathering organisations that generate content by investing a fair bit of money? Must they also pay a part of the advertising revenue?

CONTENT IS KING BUT THE WORLD IS A PIPE

Is content king? We were told it was. In the old days. Those were the days when content was unique and largely found its way into the printed pages of newspapers. These newspapers were craved for, picked up with gusto early in the mornings or late in the afternoon (as in the case of the tabloids of the day), and in all ways the morning and afternoon newspapers were the only source of all news. Content surely was king and queen bundled into one.

And then the times changed. In came radio and television with their ability to collect, curate and disseminate news. Radio, through its ubiquitous ability to reach every nook and cranny of the consumer market for news, was a winner. Television with its ability to bring visual power to the process of news dissemination became an even bigger medium that took content to the masses. In a country as large and disparate as India, all the three mediums survived and thrived. Till now.

And then the times changed even more. Enter the era of the years of the 2000 series. In came the digital medium. Mediums such as WhatsApp, Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and a whole host of 26 other channels carry news and content that is critical to the inquisitive mind of the human at large, all across. These mediums, in many ways beat every other traditional medium there is, on the count of time and timeliness.

If the newspaper takes a cycle-time of 24 hours to repeat its edition, television is possibly on a 4-hour cycle and radio is possibly on a quicker hourly cycle-time. Digital, on the other hand, is all about this moment and now. As news breaks anywhere across the globe, a simple WhatsApp message disseminating the news can go viral all across the world in a few minutes. And that indeed is the power of the digital. Social media is able to grab news and run with it faster than any other traditional medium there is. Digital search engines such as Google are able to collect, channelise and present not one source on the news that is trending, but possibly even a few hundred thousand of those. And that again is the power of the digital and the digitised.

As all these digital mediums fell into place in the early years of the 2000s, the important point to remember is the fact that all these are but mediums. They are really facilitators and channels. They are the pipes that were being laid out assiduously across the globe. They were the virtual pipes that just did not need all the expenditures that physical pipes would need to do just that. The moment you got a smartphone, you had the ability to download an app. And if that app happened to be a WhatsApp or a Signal, so be it. The app was the pipe. You got onto social media and found it to be a great thing to do. Better still, Facebook was free. You really joined the pipeline, as yet another ventricle that would lead to a hundred other social media ventricles. You became part of a network of pipes really.

And, then, one social media vehicle got bought over by another. And those pipes really expanded geometrically, covering everyone out there who ever thought of going digital. At this point of writing, the total number of people across the world on this network of digital pipes is all of 4.66 billion. And in India, this number is a robustly growing-by-the-second 740 million. The game is on.

But, then, a pipe is a pipe. It needs to carry content. The digital pipe that has been set up so assiduously over all these 20 years, does carry content. If it did not, it would not be as powerful a pipe as it is today. The content it carries is individual communication, personal group communication, gossip, banter and solid content.

Solid content is really what the search engine produces at the click of a search icon with a keyword on Google. The content thus produced actually belongs to someone else. It could be content that Wikipedia puts together, or content that is put together by a newsgathering organisation for that matter. The value of the content that floats at the top of the search is really the credibility of the content-generator, and of course at times is part of the money-leveraged search-engine optimisation (SEO) process put together by the pipe.

Solid content is really what the search engine produces at the click of a search icon with a keyword on Google. It could be content that Wikipedia puts together, or content that is put together by a newsgathering organisation for that matter

Newsgathering organisations such as newspapers, radio and television channels invest a fair bit of money in setting up newsgathering teams, editing teams and indeed teams that participate in the dissemination of what they gather. Today, what they gather finds its ways not only through their publications and channels, but also predominantly through the pipes set up by the digital establishment at large. And these digital establishments have grown to be large and powerful as ever before. At times even more powerful in terms of what they can do, threaten to do, and not do, as we see in the case of the face-off between Facebook and Australia.

Content, therefore, is still king. The pipe is but a pipe. The pipe needs to carry content, and this content comes largely from established traditional mediums in the realm of print, radio and television. The virtual digital pipe carries all of this content and disseminates it farther than the physical pipe ever could. And the pipe makes money on all of it. The pipe gets people to advertise and piggyback on all of this content. In many ways, the pipe is the vein and the artery, and content is the blood it carries.

The final and most important question: Must the pipe not pay the organisations that actually put all the content together? How much must it pay? Must it pay for the content that it picks to carry and showcase? And, must it also pay a part of the advertising revenue it generates on the content that it carries? After all, if this content was just not there, that revenue would just not be there, right?

These two questions will be the vexatious questions that will need to be addressed and answered, over the next few years, as content providers will demand answers. Blood demands this answer from the vein and artery!

BUDGET BOOST FOR SCIENCE, TECH AND INNOVATION

CHANDRAJIT BANERJEE

Director General
Confederation of Indian Industry

Science, technology and innovation are the bedrock of a knowledge economy. The strides we have taken in these areas thus far have largely contributed to the success of the healthcare management during the Covid-19 pandemic. Taking cognizance of this, the Union Budget 2021-22 emphasised on strengthening the R&D and innovation, technologies and start-up ecosystem for opening new vistas for the post-Covid economy. This will contribute significantly towards a strong and sustained economic revival.

In order to give an impetus to innovation and R&D, Budget 2021 lays out the modalities of the National Research Foundation, providing an outlay of ₹50,000 crore over the next five years. This will ensure the overall research ecosystem in the country is strengthened. Further, it will provide stimulus to research and innovation through the creation, development and deployment of knowledge in all fields of science and technology, including indigenous knowledge.

The Budget also proposes the launch of various new technology-led initiatives, including a National Language Translation Mission, execution of PSLV-CS51 launch by NewSpace India Limited, Deep Ocean Mission with an outlay of more than ₹4,000 crore over five years and Gaganyaan Mission activities. Focus on such unique technology-driven programmes will give a further boost to Atmanirbhar Bharat.

The Budget proposes to deploy a scheme of ₹1,500 to promote digital payments. This will take India towards establishing a digital economy.

The setting up of a national institution for One Health, a Regional Research Platform for WHO South East Asia Region, nine Bio-Safety Level III laboratories and four regional National Institutes for Virology will contribute greatly to the healthcare research.

The Budget proposes to launch a portal that will collect relevant information on gig, building, and construction-workers among others. This will help formulate health, housing, skill, insurance, credit, and food schemes for migrant workers. This will aid around 15 million gig workers in India, in addition to online platform providers across sectors such as transportation, food delivery, and the contract workers in IT firms.

Union Budget emphasises on strengthening the R&D and innovation, technologies and startup ecosystem for opening new vistas for the post-Covid economy. This will contribute significantly towards a strong and sustained economic revival

The government proposes to incentivise the incorporation of One Person Companies (OPC) by allowing them to grow without any restrictions on paid-up capital and turnover, allowing their conversion into any other type of company at any time, reducing the residency limit for an Indian citizen to set up an OPC from 182 days to 120 days and also allow NRIs to incorporate OPCs in India. This will give a boost to start-ups and entrepreneurship.

To create more opportunities and to incentivise start-ups in the country, the Budget extends the eligibility for claiming tax holiday for start-ups by one more year till 31st March 2022. Further, to incentivise funding of start-ups, it also proposes to extend the capital gains exemption for investments in start-ups by one more year till March 31, 2022.

There is also an announcement to revise the definition for small companies under the Companies Act, 2013 by increasing their thresholds for paid-up capital from 'not exceeding ₹50 lakh' to 'not exceeding ₹2 crore' and turnover from 'not exceeding ₹2 crore' to 'not exceeding ₹20 crore'. This revision of definition will benefit small firms in easing the compliance procedures.

Industry would have liked to see encouragement to private sector R&D in the Budget as well. The complete value chain of private interventions needs to be boosted by including pilots and trial products as well as marketing under the umbrella of R&Ds.

Help the misguided youth

Disha Ravi: 2 Mins of fame or something seriously amiss? (March 1) says youngsters become activists out of their concern for the society, arising from their sense of idealism. But chances of them being hijacked by mischievous people cannot be ruled out. In such cases, the government should step in and bring back such misguided youth to the mainstream.

Dharmarajan A K, Thalassery

2 minutes of limelight

There is nothing wrong if young activists get their two minutes of fame. A bright light in a dark, difficult place may last only for a few minutes, but it is a lifeline for many. Those reading that story in a column cannot appreciate its value. The world will be a rich place even if one in a million such lights is helped to become a beacon. And it happens, human nature being what it is.

M Balakrishnan, Bengaluru

Disha didn't want fame

Makarand Paranjpe's query Disha Ravi: 2 mins of fame or something seriously amiss? (March 1) is a non-issue. She did not ask for fame — it is the action taken by the authorities, who made the toolkit a sinister design, that made her famous! And, there's nothing 'seriously amiss' as the judge indicted the security agencies in the matter and granted bail to Disha.

K Nehru Patnaik, Visakhapatnam

Vulnerable idealists

The writer rightly points out the dangers surrounding young, vulnerable idealists. Instead of scaring these youngsters and disparaging their efforts, the elders should come forward to nurture and guide them. Sadly, our society does not have such robust guiding forums. Energetic, enthusiastic youngsters are left on their own. Whether they persevere and achieve, or they lose focus and wither away, is left to their luck.

Ibrahim Rasoolmohideen, Hyderabad

Lasting peace at last?

Lasting peace between India and Pakistan is possibly only if the latter honours the ceasefire with India with sincerity (Truce first step towards Indo-Pak peace talks, Mar 1). One reason why Pakistan is serious about ceasefire this time is because it is worried about India's growing military might. Pakistan knows India can hit anywhere at any time if the agreement is violated.

K V Raghuram, Wayanad

Undocumented deaths

This is with reference to The larger tragedy of Sivakasi (March 1). The recent increase in accidents in the hazardous fireworks industry in Tamil Nadu raises a serious question — is every casualty being accounted for? Undocumented employment in the fireworks industry is a major concern. It is unlikely that workers with no official record of being employed would be counted as casualties.

Shreya Mudliar, Bengaluru

Don't denigrate UP

Apropos Anandavalli differs from Adityanath (Feb 28), T J S George should remember that a tea vendor has become India's Prime Minister thanks to the owerwhelming support from Adityanath's Uttar Pradesh, too. That shows India has strong democratic roots. The intellectuals were in praise of the north Indians when they defeated Indira Gandhi after Emergency. But, Kerala was an exception.

Rajendran Pandalam, Kerala

Confusing TN politics

The Tamil Nadu political scene is rather confusing with so many players in the field. Curiously, the BJP has said it will bring back the legacy of both MGR and Jayalalithaa. For, when Amma was alive, she had kept the state BJP at an arm's length in the state while cosying up with the central leadership of the saffron party. It seems the current leadership of the AIADMK has completely surrendered before the BJP.

V Padmanabhan, Bengaluru

Azad did nothing wrong

If Congress veteran Ghulam Nabi Azad has praised Prime Minister Modi on merit, there is nothing wrong in it. Political opposition does not mean that one cannot say good things about others at a personal level. Therefore, criticism in this regard against Azad by a section of the Congress party is devoid of any basis.

Sudhakar Cherukunnu, Kannur

Politics of convenience

Congress and the Left parties are contesting the forthcoming elections in Bengal, Assam and Tamil Nadu as partners but as rivals in Kerala. This dual stand is being justified on the ground that the issues in different states are different. But this logic is unlikely to wash. Ideally, the LDF and the UDF should be contesting elections as alliance partners even in Kerala against their common enemy — the 'communal' BJP.

Glitches galore on Day 1 of vax drive

Health minister promises that the glitches in the system will be streamlined in the days to come

People wait for their turn to receive vaccine in Mumbai on Monday | PTI

THE first day of the national vaccination drive covering general public saw the initial enthusiasm of beneficiaries ebb into frustration following glitches in the technological platform driving the initiative.

Over one million citizens were registered on the Co-WIN portal in barely four hours after the registration window opened at 9 am.

A vast majority of people from across country complained about the unavailability of inoculation slots and the glitches they experienced while registering on the CoWIN platform — a fact highlighted by an online poll by LocalCircle showing nearly 92 per cent of the over 6,800 people surveyed had failed to get a vaccination slot on Day 1 of the second phase of Covid vaccination.

The survey showed that while 13 per cent respondents failed in accessing the site app, 50 per cent did not get any OTP or SMS while 29 per cent got registrations but no appointments. Only 8 per cent of citizens said they were able to book the appointments successfully.

The Union health ministry had to clarify that the registration and booking for appointments are to be done through the CoWIN portal. "Registration and booking for appointment for #COVID19 vaccination is to be done through #CoWIN Portal:www.cowin.gov.in," it tweeted. There is no #CoWIN App for beneficiary registration. The App on Play Store is for administrators only."

Union Health Minister Harsh Vardhan promised that the glitches in the system will be streamlined in the days to come. "A certain number of people can walk-in at the centres. There are many people who can't access or face difficulty in booking. All these systems will be streamlined within one week. As of now, there is no issue in the app."

Some experts pointed out that the platform is experiencing the same problems faced in Phase 1 of the vaccination when only healthcare and frontline workers were being covered. "As of now, less than 1 per cent of population has been vaccinated and in order to vaccinate the targeted 30 crore over the next few months, it is important to urgently upgrade CoWIN's infrastructure to," said a public health expert.

The IMA, in a statement, said that the CoWIN platform needs to be more "people friendly."

Will never forget this day, say nurses who vaccinated Modi

For nurses P Niveda and Rosamma Anil, March 1 will forever remain a memorable day in their lives. Like any other day, the two nurses at AIIMS-Delhi had reached the vaccination centre in the morning as per their schedule. However, both were surprised to see that the first person to receive the jab would be none other than PM Narendra Modi. "We didn't have the slightest idea that the PM would be coming. We were on duty at 6 am as was being told. Seniors said that some one will come, but we weren't told. It was indeed a big surprise and a huge honour as well. A very important day in our lives," said Niveda who hails from Puducherry.

He came around 6 am and when entered the room he spoke very nicely to us, greeted with a warm smile. The PM then asked which state I am from. ... I will always remember this day

VVIPs lead the way, get first dose

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

SEVERAL VVIPs across the country followed PM Narendra Modi in taking the jab on the first day of the vaccination for all 60-plus and co-morbid 45-plus populations.

Vice-President M Venkaiah Naidu took his first dose of the vaccine at Government Medical College in Chennai and appealed to all those eligible to get vaccinated proactively and join the fight against Covid-19.

Union Home Minister Amit Shah was administered the first dose of the vaccine by doctors from Medanta Hospital.

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar took to Twitter to inform that he, too, had got his first dose. "Got my jab. For the curious, it was Covaxin. Felt secure, will travel safely," he posted along a picture of him getting vaccinated.

Union minister Jitendra Singh took the jab at AIIMS Delhi. "Let all join the #COVID-free India movement led by the PM," he tweeted.

NCP chief Sharad Pawar received the first dose of COVID-19 vaccine at a civic hospital here in Mumbai. The 80-year-old former Union minister was administered Covishield vaccine. His wife Pratibha Pawar and daughter Supriya Sule, also got vaccinated.

Rajasthan Governor Kalraj Mishra, 80, was vaccinated at Raj Bhawan in Jaipur under the supervision of Dr Sudhir Bhandari, principal of SMS Medical College.

Bihar CM Nitish Kumar and his Odisha counterpart Naveen Patnaik were among the state heads to receive the shot on Monday. Nitish received the jab at IGIMS in Patna. He said arrangements had been made at the government-run super specialty hospital for inoculation of all members of the state legislature.

Rape comment: Experts call for gender sensitisation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

LEGAL experts expressed shock over the Supreme Court asking a rape accused if he was willing to marry the victim.

Pointing out that such comments prevent the victims from coming out and reporting the incidents, they stressed the need for special training to judges on gender sensitisation. "The SC observation is a shocking one as marriage is not a solution for a rape survivor at all. These statements demoralise the victims," said advocate Aparna Bhatt, who along with others had moved the Supreme Court to set aside a Madhya Pradesh High Court order last year granting bail to an accused in a molestation case on the condition that he request the complainant to tie him a rakhi.

In November 2020, Attorney General K K Venugopal, while assisting the top court on the petition challenging the high court order, had said judges needed to be educated on gender sensitisation. The national and state judicial academies must have programmes on gender sensitisation, he had told the court.

Voicing concern over the SC observation, Supreme Court lawyer Rekha Aggarwal said, "It is high time our society and judiciary stopped treating a woman as a commodity. Rape is rape and there is no question of condoning the same on the pretext of marriage. When we are treating every victim of rape as a survivor, then it is the need of the hour that in spite of giving choice to the accused to get married to the girl, consent should first be taken from her whether or not she would be able to cope up with the lifelong stigma which the accused had given her."

Preeti Pratishruti Dash, a legal researcher with National Law University, Delhi, said, "Unfortunately, the enforcement of the criminal law of rape itself reinforces prejudicial stereotypes about women's sexuality. Rape is seen as especially heinous if it harms the marital prospects of a woman, since society, as well as courts, consider a woman 'respectable' only if she falls within the marital economy."

SC questions what construes marital rape

NEW DELHI: In an observation that has reignited the debate on marital rape, the Supreme Court on Monday questioned whether sexual intercourse between man and wife can be termed as rape.

The court was hearing the petition of a person who was accused of rape by a woman with whom he had been in a live-in relationship for over two years. She filed an FIR for rape after he married another woman.

"If a couple is living together as man and wife, the husband may be a brutal man, but can you call the act of sexual intercourse between a lawfully wedded man and wife as rape?" a bench headed by CJI S A Bobde asked.

According to the complainant, the couple had been in a romantic relationship but she had refused to enter into a sexual relationship before marriage. She claimed the couple went to Manali in February 2014 and secretly got married at a temple there.

The man denied any marriage took place and contended that the live-in relationship was a consensual one while the woman maintained that the consent for sexual intercourse was obtained by fraud.

"No one should falsely promise marriage and break off. But that is different from saying that the act of sexual intercourse is rape," observed the SC bench.

The woman also alleged that the accused had "brutally exploited" her. "Then you file a case for assault and marital cruelty. Why file a rape case?" asked the CJI. The court gave the man protection from arrest for eight weeks. ENS

Bengal tie-up against Cong ethos: Anand Sharma

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

IN open dissent against the Congress-Left-Indian Secular Front (ISF) alliance in West Bengal, senior party leader Anand Sharma, who is part of the 'G-23', said that the tie-up was against the party's core ideology and Gandhian-Nehruvian secularism, which forms the soul of the party.

Sharma said such issues needed to be approved by the Congress Working Committee, the party's highest decision making body.

Interestingly, the outburst by the Rajya Sabha MP came on a day the party high command appointed former Maharashtra chief minister Prithviraj Chavan, who is also part of G-23, as member of screening committee for Assam polls.

A small group of G-23 leaders had met in Jammu last week and said the Congress had weakened and that they were never consulted on issues related to the elections.

Sharma directly targeted West Bengal Congress president Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury for the alliance. "The Congress cannot be selective in fighting communalists, but must do so in all its manifestations, irrespective of religion and colour. The presence and endorsement of West Bengal PCC president is painful and shameful. He must clarify," the former union minister said.

On Sunday, the Abbas Siddiqui-led ISF held a mega rally in Kolkata that was attended by Chowdhury, along with other Congress and Left leaders. AICC in-charge for West Bengal Jitin Prasada, another member of the G-23, was also present at the rally. The ISF has been brought into the alliance by the Left Front.

The internal turmoil in the Congress intensified after a group of 23 party leaders wrote to Sonia Gandhi in August 2020 over the need for organisational elections. The party has announced to hold the organisational polls in May.

Chinese hackers attacked power grid to coerce India at LAC?

PUSHKAR BANAKAR AND SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI
@ New Delhi/Mumbai

STATE-sponsored Chinese hackers may have targeted Indian power grids and ports with malware even as tensions along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) escalated, The New York Times said quoting a US cybersecurity firm's study, leading to doubts over the cause of the October 12 grid failure in Mumbai.

Recorded Future, a Massachusetts-based company, found a spike in malware in Indian government, defence and public sector organisations in the build up to the clashes along the LAC since May last year. According to it, the cyber attacks began in May and continued throughout the year. Recorded Future claims the intrusions have now significantly come down.

Apart from Recorded Future, cybersecurity firm Cyfirma claimed state-sponsored Chinese hackers had targeted IT systems of two Indian Covid vaccine manufacturers — Serum Institute of India and Bharat Biotech.

According to Cyfirma, Chinese group APT10, also known as Stone Panda, identified vulnerabilities in the IT infrastructure and supply chain software of Bharat Biotech and the Serum Institute of India (SII). Cyfirma Chief Executive told media that the real motive of the group was to exfiltrate IP addresses and gain a competitive advantage over Indian pharmaceutical firms.

The NYT report also claims that Indian authorities were alerted about the increase in deployment of malware and given technical details. Responding to the report, the Power Ministry on Monday said an email was received from CERT-In on November 19, 2020, on the threat of malware called Shadow Pad at some control centres of POSOCO. Accordingly, action was taken to address the threats.

"NCIIPC informed through mail on February 12 about a state-sponsored Chinese hacker group Red Echo targeting Indian Power sector's Regional Load Dispatch Centres along with State Load Dispatch Centres," the ministry said, adding that all systems in control centres were scanned and cleaned by an anti-virus tool. The report quoted Recorded Future COO Stuart Solomon saying that Red Echo was observed to systematically use cyber intrusion techniques to gain foothold in nearly a dozen critical nodes across the Indian power generation and transmission infrastructure. "Recorded Future identified 21 IP addresses targeting 10 power organisations and two seaports — the VO Chidambaranar Port and Mumbai Port Trust," it added.

Meanwhile, the Maharashtra government ordered an inquiry into the alleged intrusion. Home minister Anil Deshmukh said the cyber cell was asked to submit a report. "We have taken cognisance of media reports and have decided to conduct a thorough inquiry into the cyberattack by China."

Maharashtra Home minister Anil Deshmukh said that the eight GB foreign server data may have transferred into the Maharashtra State electric Board serve system to sabotage the financial capital's power supply. He said as per their cyber department's detailed report some black-listed internet addresses are being used to login in MSEB's server system to disturb Mumbai's power supply in October of last year. "American's Recorded Future, a Massachusetts-based company in its future network analysis report claimed that China might have introduced some viruses in MSEB system and Mumbai's electric infrastructure. We cannot rule out the foul play by China behind this unprecedented outage in Mumbai," Deshmukh said.

BEIJING CALLS US FIRM'S REPORT IRRESPONSIBLE

The Chinese foreign ministry termed the report irresponsible. "Speculation and fabrication have no role to play on the issue of cyber attacks. It is irresponsible to accuse a particular party when there is no sufficient evidence," foreign ministry spokesperson Wang Wenbin said

Ceasefire gives window to improve anti-militancy strategy, says Army

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE Army said the India-Pakistan ceasefire would give it an opportunity to improve its capacity and capability to control and check infiltration in Jammu and Kashmir.

Jawans have been ordered to even stop practice firing in the ranges near the frontiers.

Before the initiation of border ceasefire on February 25, Indian and Pakistani troops used to exchange fire on a daily basis. At least four Indian soldiers were killed in the first two months of this year. As many as 5,133 ceasefire violations in 2020 were reported in which 24 security men and 22 civilians were killed.

General Officer Commanding (GoC) 15 Corps Lt Gen B S Raju termed the border ceasefire as a "positive step" and a conscious call by the two countries. "We will give border ceasefire the best shot and won't be trigger happy. If there is an incident, we will raise the issue and talk to the other side."

The GoC said the ceasefire would give the Army an opportunity to improve its capacity and ability to check and control the infiltration. However, the ceasefire won't have any impact on anti-militancy operations which would continue in J&K.

The United Arab Emirates (UAE) on Monday welcomed the joint statement from India and Pakistan on strictly following the ceasefire and termed the development as an important step towards achieving security, stability and prosperity in the region.

INTERVIEW

NEED MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING TO END FARMER STIR

Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar tells Harpreet Bajwa that the protesting farmers will eventually understand that the stalemate over the agri laws has to be resolved with mutual understanding. Excerpts:

What is the revenue situation of Haryana? Has revenue collection declined during the pandemic?
Our revenue receipts are down by ₹7,000- 8,000 crore and part of the grant-in-aid from Centre has also not come. Overall, the revenue collection this fiscal is down by ₹14,000-₹15,000 crore, which is 10 per cent less than our estimates.

How will you control the debts?
The capital expenditure is in our hand…Also, our deficit is not as much as other states; it's less than 3 per cent of the GSDP. Our debts will touch ₹2 lakh crore, but our GSDP this time is about ₹8.6 lakh crore.

Is the BJP trying to convince the farmers about the three agri laws as there's a lot of resentment among them in Haryana and Punjab?
We have been trying to convince the farmers but they are adamant that the laws must be repealed. They have been asked many times to discuss the problems clause-by-clause so that we can amend the laws accordingly.

How do you see the stalemate ending?
Ultimately, people among the farmers only will come out and tell them there is a limit and everything has to be sorted out with mutual understanding. There are intelligent people among the farmers.

Will the farmer agitation have any impact on BJP's prospects in the states that are going to polls?
Besides Haryana, Punjab and western Uttar Pradesh, there is no impact of the agitation anywhere else, except some small pockets in a few states.

What is your take on khaps and villagers putting up banners banning the entry of BJP and JJP leaders?
Banners have been put in a few villages, but we have not made it a prestige issue. They are our own people; we do not want any confrontation with them. It will be resolved soon.

TMC scouts for 'clean faces' to counter BJP

To blunt saffron party's corruption allegations against its elected leaders, Mamata's party likely to field popular faces

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

THE ruling Trinamool Congress has decided not to field candidates who are over 80-years-old in the upcoming West Bengal Assembly polls. "We have decided not to give seats to octogenarian candidates considering their health," said Subrata Mukherjee, a minister in Mamata's Cabinet.

At present the ruling party has three MLAs who are aged above 80 years. Sources in the ruling party said the list of contestants will throw some surprises. "We will field clean faces in some pockets where they are popular. We might field a doctor or a retired police officer who is known for their clean image. Besides, we will select those who are popular faces in serials and silver screen," said a TMC leader.

The TMC had recently inducted youngsters, retired police officers, doctors and actors. "It is because the party wants to blunt the BJP's allegation of corruption by our elected representatives. We might axe some sitting MLAs because of their poor connect with the masses," said the leader.

Sources in the TMC said the decision to scout for "clean faces" was necessitated by the unimpressive performance of the party in 2019 elections. "We received such a jolt because of the allegations of corruption against our party satraps. This time, we will not give them room to attack us on the issue," said another TMC leader.

The leader further said the BJP was sharpening attack on TMC by mainly focusing on cyclone relief issues. "They are not citing the Narada sting operations where our leaders were seen accepting money. It is because one of them joined the BJP. We will field people in such a way that the BJP won't get the chance to attack us on corruption issue," he added.

Congress seals deal with Left, to contest 92 seats

Kolkata: The Congress sealed seat-sharing agreement with the Left Front (LF) on Monday. It would field candidates in 92 out of 294 seats in the upcoming Bengal polls. The party, however, made it clear that if any other political forces join the alliance, seats will have to be given to them where his party is not contesting.

Tejashwi announces alliance with Mamata

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav met West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday and announced his full support to her party in the upcoming assembly elections. The RJD will contest in a few seats, three to four, as an ally of the ruling Trinamool Congress.

"Many people from Bihar live in West Bengal. I appeal to all from Bihar to support Mamata ji," said Yadav,

Welcoming Yadav's announcement, Mamata said, "The BJP used all kinds of tricks to stop him (Yadav) from wining the Bihar elections."

Non-Bengali people living in West Bengal have a stake of around 6 per cent in the state's total electorate. In many pockets people migrated from Bihar have a strong presence, constituting 12 per cent to 14 per cent of total electorate.

RJD's decision is said to be significant at a time when the state is likely to witness a tooth and nail battle.

"A considerable chunk of 6 per cent non-Bengali electorate is from Bihar. Considering the BJP's performance in the 2019 polls, we are ahead by only 3 per cent votes. The non-Bengali voters might prove a deciding factor in some of the constituencies. The move will definitely secure us electoral dividend to some extent," said a TMC leader.

JD(U), RJD eye migrant voters in Assam, Bengal

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

BIHAR-based RJD and JD(U) are eying the votes of migrant residents in Assam and West Bengal in the upcoming assembly elections in these states. It is estimated that around 5-6 per cent of the electorate in the two states comprise Hindi-speaking people who had migrated to Assam and Bengal from UP and Bihar.

While the JD (U) has said it would contest 32 seats dominated by Hindi-speaking and minority voters in Assam, the RJD is learnt to have decided to contest in 16 seats in the state.

RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav had recently visited Assam and discussed about an alliance with the Congress-led coalition. According to Patna's two senior poll analysts Arun Kumar Pandey and Ashok K Mishra, both the RJD and the JDU will be trying to woo the Hindi-speaking people. "It is believed that out of 126 assembly seats in Assam, results in around 15 seats are dependent on voters of Hindi-speaking belts. These seats are Biswanath, Lakhipur, Sonari, Nalbari, Dhing, Kokrajhar East, Golaghat, Jorhat, Kaliabor, Tiok, Laharghat, Barchala, Dudhani, Dhubri, Gauripur, Raha, Marigaon, Golpara East, Abhaypuri North, Digboi and Naogaigaichh," said Pandey.

The RJD had contested in Assam elections in 2001 and 2006 while the JDU had contested in 2001, 2006, 2011 and 2016. Both parties had failed to win a single seat. In Bengal, there are nearly 11 assembly seats which have Hindi-speaking electorate who had migrated from UP, Bihar and Jharkhand.

Ram temple trust plans global donation drive

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

The VHP's 44-day donation drive — Samarpan Nidhi Abhiyan — concluded on February 27 with a collection of over ₹2,100 crore. The Sri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust is now considering going global by launching a similar drive. Mahant Govind Dev Giri, treasurer of the temple trust, says requests are pouring in from 'Ram bhakts' living abroad for a donation drive meant for the construction of a grand Ram temple in Ayodhya. He said the trust would soon meet to decide on the matter. "Members will discuss the protocol related to the RBI, Finance Ministry, I-T regulations and clearances, to be followed for launching the Samarpan Nidhi Abhiyan globally," said a trustee.

Sources say the trust has deputed an expert to study international laws allowing global funding to avoid any controversy. In September last year, the trust had applied for government permission to accept foreign donations as overseas devotees had started sending contributions after PM Modi performed 'bhoomi pujan', said a trust member.

The construction cost of the temple has been revised and pegged at ₹1,500 crore after changes were made in its designs. Trust general secretary Champat Rai has said more funds will be required for the expansion of the temple complex. Some other trustees don't rule out the relaunch of the donation drive if the need arose.

Meanwhile, Iqbal Ansari, son of late Hashim Ansari, one of the oldest litigants in the Ram Janmabhoomi-Babri mosque dispute, also donated towards the temple construction.

Ayodhya-based Ansari donated an unknown sum on behalf of his late father, wife, son, daughter and himself.

After BJP, it's Congress turn now to take up cause of tea workers in Assam

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

AHEAD of the Assam assembly polls, both the BJP and Congress are trying hard to woo the tea workers in the state. The BJP had scored some brownie points initially when it brought the top brass, including Prime Minister Narendra Modi, to the tea gardens. Taking a cue from the saffron party, the Congress, too, is sending its star campaigners to the state.

On Monday Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra danced with a group of girls from the tea workers' community in Lakhimpur and surprised the voters with her moves.

Later, speaking at a programme, she targeted PM Modi for his recent statement that Assam tea was under attack. "PM Modi had spoken about an attack on the Assam tea. If you wanted to protect Assam tea, why did you not generate employment? Why was there a meager hike in the daily wage of tea workers?" she asked.

The state government had recently hiked the wages by ₹50 — from ₹167 to ₹217. Ahead of last election, the BJP had promised a daily wage of ₹351 to the community. Recently, the Congress promised that it would give a daily wage of ₹365 if voted to power.

Assam has 126 Assembly seats and in around one-third of them, tea workers determine the fate of candidates.

Continuing her attack on the BJP, Priyanka said, "Assam is your mother. The upcoming polls are a matter of the existence of your mother. When you cast your vote, think twice if the party can ensure a brighter future of your children." She also said that the BJP-RSS ideologies have no place in Assam's culture.

Punjab assembly witnesses ruckus over agri laws

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chandigarh

THE Punjab assembly opened to a stormy budget session on Monday after the opposition parties crated a ruckus in the House over the contentious farm laws.

As Governor V P Singh Badnore started his address to kick-start the budget session, Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) MLAs led by Bikram Majithia shouted 'Go back governor' slogans over the farm laws. They questioned why the governor didn't send the amendments on farm Bills passed by the Punjab Assembly for Presidential nod. They rushed to the Well of the House and even threw some papers in the air. The SAD MLAs were later joined by the Aam Admi Party (AAP) legislators who too raised slogans against the governor.

Earlier, as a symbolic protest against the rising fuel prices, the AAP MLAs came to the assembly riding on bicycles. The Congress ministers and MLAs also protested against the governor, but outside the house as they tried to move towards the Raj Bhawan over the fuel price rise, holding the BJP led government at the Centre responsible for it.

Privacy breach: FB to pay $650 mn

WASHINGTON

A US federal judge has given final approval to Facebook's $650 million payment to settle a privacy dispute between the social media giant and 1.6 million users in the state of Illinois.

"We are pleased to have reached a settlement so we can move past this matter, which is in the best interest of our community and our shareholders," a Facebook spokesperson said in a statement.

The decision was issued on Friday, according to documents seen by AFP on Sunday. Chicago attorney Jay Edelson sued Facebook in 2015, alleging it illegally collected biometric data to identify faces in violation of a 2008 Illinois privacy law.

At the end of January 2020, Facebook agreed to pay $550 million after it failed to get the lawsuit —filed as a class action in 2018 —dismissed.

But in July 2020, the judge in the case, James Donato, ruled that the amount was insufficient.

During the trial, it emerged that Facebook was violating Illinois law by storing biometric data—digital scans of people's faces, in support of its face-tagging feature—without users' consent.

In 2019, Facebook proposed that the facial recognition feature be optional only.

According to Donato, the regulation is "a landmark result" and represents a "major win for consumers in the area of digital privacy."

"It is one the largest settlements ever for a privacy violation," he commented, noting that plaintiffs will receive at least $345 each. AFP

Suu Kyi appears in court, two more charges slapped

Accused of breaching communications laws and inciting public

YANGON

OUSTED Myanmar civilian leader Aung San Suu Kyi was hit with two new criminal charges in a court appearance via video link on Monday, a month after a military coup triggered relentless mass protests.

Suu Kyi has not been seen in public since being detained on February 1, and her appearance came as demonstrators took to the streets again across the country in defiance of an escalation of deadly force by the junta. At least 18 people died on Sunday as troops and police fired live rounds at demonstrators in cities across Myanmar, according to the United Nations, which cited its own credible information.

Suu Kyi, 75, was already facing obscure criminal charges for possessing unlicensed walkie-talkies, as well as violating coronavirus restrictions by staging a campaign event during last year's election.

She is now also accused of breaching communications laws as well as intent to incite public unrest, her lawyer Khin Maung Zaw said.

"We can not say for sure how many more cases Daw Aung San Suu Kyi will face in this period," he told reporters in Naypyidaw.

"Anything can happen in this country at this time."

Suu Kyi has reportedly been kept under house arrest in the capital of Naypyidaw, an isolated city purpose-built under Myanmar's previous junta.

The military has justified its takeover, which ended a decade-long democratic experiment, with unfounded allegations of widespread fraud in last November's national elections, which Suu Kyi's National League for Democracy won in a landslide.

Deposed lawmakers from her party on Monday branded the junta a "terrorist group".

"Due to the atrocities and acts of terrorism of the military the streets and communities across Myanmar have become battlefields," a committee of lawmakers said.

Hundreds of thousands of people have taken to streets regularly over the past month to oppose the coup.

The military has steadily escalated the type of force used in trying to contain the uprising, beginning with tear gas and water cannons, and this weekend's violence saw a major escalation as rubber bullets and live rounds were deployed.

Despite Sunday's bloodshed protesters remain defiant, with some citing a sense of duty to their children's future.

"I'm here as a frontliner because I don't want my son to grow up in this evil era," a student named Eric said, adding he had a 10-month-old baby.

On Monday, protests erupted again in multiple cities across the country, with demonstrators in Yangon using bamboo poles, sofas and tree branches to erect barricades across streets.

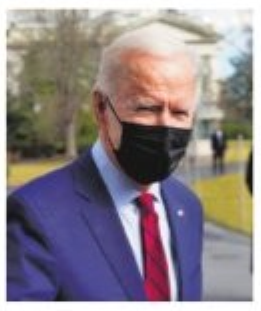
Security forces used stun grenades and tear gas in parts of Yangon. In one clash broadcast on Facebook, unarmed protesters fled after a volley of shots were fired. It was not immediately clear if the security forces had fired live rounds. AFP

Biden backs Amazon workers' right to unionise

WASHINGTON

US President Joe Biden on Sunday backed the right of Amazon workers to unionise, but stopped short of explicitly encouraging them to form a union. Workers at an Amazon warehouse in Alabama began voting in February on whether to form the first American union at the e-commerce giant that could pave the way for further unionisation in the US at one of the world's most powerful companies.

"Workers in Alabama and all across America are voting on whether to organize a union in their workplace," Biden said in a video posted to Twitter. "This is vitally important —a vitally important choice."



US President Joe Biden speaks to reporters at the White House | AFP

"There should be no intimidation, no coercion, no threats, no anti-union propaganda," he said. "Every worker should have a free and fair choice to join a union." Amazon does not officially oppose unions but it has campaigned against efforts by staff at the warehouse in Bessemer to unionise.

In addition to flyers posted in bathrooms, it has held meetings to make the case against unions and even launched a website arguing that a union is unnecessary. There have been a series of protests around the United States on safety and working conditions at Amazon, with the pandemic increasing pressure on its distribution network even as profits soar.

The company—helmed by the world's richest person, Jeff Bezos—has maintained that it has invested billions in worker safety even as it has boosted the number of its employees. It is unclear how many of the Bessemer employees support a union, with the count expected to begin on March 30. If a majority vote in favor, they will automatically be represented by the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (RWDSU) but will only become full members after approval of a new company contract, negotiated between the union and Amazon. AFP

One year in jail for Sarkozy over corruption

PARIS

FORMER French president Nicolas Sarkozy was found guilty of corruption on Monday and handed a three-year prison sentence after a court in Paris convicted him for trying to influence a judge during his time in office. The sentence includes two years suspended, which means it is unlikely Sarkozy will physically go to prison.

He is almost certain to appeal and remains free, with no arrest warrant issued.

The verdict is the latest twist in the tumultuous political career of the 66-year-old who ruled France from 2007 to 2012 and remains a favourite for many on the right.

The conviction is likely to undermine any attempted comeback to frontline politics, an ambition he has denied, but which has been promoted by many supporters ahead of 2022 presidential elections.

Former French president Nicolas Sarkozy arrives at the Paris court house to hear the final verdict in the corruption trial on Monday | AFP

Only one other French president, Sarkozy's political mentor Jacques Chirac, was put on trial after leaving office, but he was excused from having to attend his 2011 corruption trial because of ill health.

Chirac received a two-year suspended sentence over the creation of ghost jobs at the Paris city hall to fund his party when he was mayor.

The verdict on Monday related to a case of influence peddling and corruption, one of at least four separate investigations into the former leader, who married former supermodel and singer Carla Bruni while in office.

Sarkozy was accused of offering to help a judge obtain a senior job in Monaco in exchange for putting pressure on an inquiry into his campaign finances. The former president told the court during the trial he had "never committed the slightest act of corruption".

Prosecutors called for him to be jailed for four years and serve a minimum of two, and asked for the same punishment for his co-defendants -- lawyer Thierry Herzog and the judge Gilbert Azibert.

"The events would not have occurred if a former president, as well as a lawyer, had kept in mind the magnitude, the responsibility, and the duties of his office," prosecutor Jean-Luc Blachon told the court. AFP

Split from royal life unbelievably tough: Harry

LOS ANGELES

PRINCE Harry says the process of separating from royal life has been very difficult for him and his wife, Meghan.

In an interview with Oprah Winfrey, Harry invoked the memory of his late mother, Princess Diana, who had to find her way alone after she and Prince Charles divorced.

"I'm just really relieved and happy to be sitting here talking to you with my wife by my side, because I can't begin to imagine what it must have been like for her going through this process by herself all those years ago," Harry said, adding, "because it's been unbelievably tough for the two of us."

> ... I can't begin to imagine what it must have been like for her (Meghan) going through this process by herself

> Prince Harry

"But at least we have each other," Harry said, in a clip from the interview special, which is scheduled to air March 7 on CBS and the following day in Britain.

Diana was shown in a photo holding toddler Harry as he made the comments. His mother died in 1997 of injuries suffered in a car crash.

Harry and Meghan sat opposite Winfrey and side-by-side, holding hands during the interview that was conducted in a lush garden setting. The couple lives in Montecito, California, where they are neighbours of Winfrey. Meghan, who recently announced she is pregnant with the couple's second child, wore an empire-style black dress with embroidery. AFP

GST collections rise 7% to ₹1.13 L cr in Feb

Sequentially, however, the collections were still lower than an all-time high of nearly ₹1.2 lakh crore seen in January

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

RECOVERY in the Goods and Services Tax (GST) continues, with collections for February crossing the ₹1 lakh crore mark for the fifth straight month. Data released by the finance ministry on Monday showed that collections stood at ₹1.13 lakh crore, an increase of over seven per cent when compared with the same month last year.

"In line with the trend of recovery in the GST revenues over the past five months, the revenues for the month of February 2021 are 7 per cent higher than the GST revenues in the same month last year," the government said. Of the total gross collections, Central GST was ₹21,092 crore, State GST was ₹27,273 crore, Integrated GST was ₹55,253 crore (including ₹24,382 crore collected on import of goods) and compensation cess was ₹9,525 crore (including ₹660 crore collected on import of goods).

Besides, the government has settled ₹22,398 crore to CGST and ₹17,534 crore to SGST from IGST as regular settlement.

"While the growth of GST collections eased mildly in February 2021, it remained healthy, in line with the consolidation in the momentum of economic activity observed across a variety of lead indicators," said Aditi Nayar, Principal Economist with ICRA Ltd.

In addition, the Centre has also settled ₹48,000 crore as IGST ad-hoc settlement in the ratio of 50:50 between the Centre, states and union territories. Revenue for the Centre and states, after regular and ad-hoc settlement, came in at ₹67,490 crore for CGST and ₹68,807 crore for the SGST. "A favourable base effect is likely to result in the CGST collections expanding by 18-23 per cent in March 2021. However, the settlement of IGST between the Centre and the states, will adversely impact the revenues of the Centre, resulting in a moderation in the growth of its gross and net tax revenues in that month," Nayar added.

During the month, revenues from import of goods was 15 per cent higher and the revenues from domestic transactions (including import of services) were five per cent higher year-on-year. "This is a clear indication of the economic recovery," the government said.

Auto firms brush aside Covid blues, post robust sales

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FEBRUARY was another good month for the automobile industry that is grappling with multiple challenges such as shortage of semiconductors and the resurgence of Covid-19 cases in several states. Backed primarily by new launches, carmakers reported a strong growth in sales.

India's largest carmaker Maruti Suzuki (MSIL) on Monday said its domestic sales (passenger vehicles and light commercial vehicles) grew 10 per cent in February to 1,47,483 units as against 134,150 units sold in the same month last year. While MSIL's mini-segment declined 12.9 per cent to 23,959 units over the same period last year, sales of its compact vehicles rose 15.3 per cent to 80,517 units. MSIL also reported 11.9 per cent increase in exports at 11,486 units.

Korean automaker Hyundai Motor (HMIL) reported a 29 per cent increase in its domestic sales at 51,600 units. HMIL Director (Sales, Marketing & Service) Tarun Garg said both domestic and export demand have recorded healthy double-digit growth last month, reflecting an all-round improvement in buyer sentiment.

However, it was Tata Motors that recorded the highest increase in sales among major players. Backed by new launches such as Altroz 2021 and SUV Safari, Tata's PV sales surged over two-folds to 27,225 units last month. Meanwhile, SUV major Mahindra & Mahindra reported a 41 per cent increase in its PV sales to 15,391 units last month, while Toyota's domestic sales rose 36 per cent at 14,075 units as updated Innova Crysta and Toyota Fortuner remains in high demand. "Demand continues to remain buoyant for our range of SUVs and we have a robust order pipeline. However, the supply of semiconductors, as we all know, is a global issue and it is likely to continue for another 3-4 months," said M&M CEO of Automotive Division, Veejay Nakra.

Europe body recommends nod for Biocon's biosimilar

ENS @Bengaluru

THE European Medicines Agency's Committee for Medicinal Products for Human Use has recommended the approval of Biocon Limited subsidiary Biocon Biologicals Ltd's biosimilar Bevacizumab. The biosimilar, which has been co-developed with American global healthcare company Viatris, is to be marketed as an injectible labelled 'Abevmy' in 100mg and 400mg vials.

A biosimilar is a biologic medical product similar to another already approved biological medicine, which is considered as the 'reference medicine'. In this case, Abevmy is a biosimilar to Roche's Avastin, prescribed for treatment of metastatic colorectal carcinoma, metastatic breast cancer, non-small-cell lung carcinoma, glioblastoma, ovarian, cervical and renal cancer as part of a specific regimen. Abevmy is a recombinant 'humanised' monoclonal antibody that selectively binds to human vascular endothelial growth factor and neutralises its biologic activity. It inhibits formation of tumour vasculature, thereby inhibiting tumour growth.

A final decision on the approval is likely by May 2021, after which the European Commission will grant marketing authorisation in 27 European Union member countries and European Economic Area member states of Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein, a company statement said. The statement said that in the UK, marketing authorisation could be expected shortly.

Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw, Executive Chairperson, Biocon Biologics, said, "(The) decision to recommend approval of our biosimilar brings us a step closer to enable affordable access to this biologic therapy for cancer patients in the EU along with our partner Viatris. It is an outcome of our commitment to expand access for patients leveraging our science and global scale manufacturing for a range of biosimilars. Through bTrastuzumab and bPegfilgrastim (earlier biosimilars), we are already making a difference in the lives of cancer patients in several EU countries."

SBI cuts home loan rates to 6.7% till March 31

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA's largest lender State Bank of India (SBI) on Monday reduced the rate on home loans to 6.7 per cent. This is, however, a limited period offer ending on March 31. SBI is also giving a 100 per cent waiver on processing fees.

The interest concession is based on the loan amount and CIBIL score of the borrower. SBI believes that it is important to extend better rates to customers who maintain good repayment history, the bank said in a statement. "SBI, being the market leader in home finance, takes ownership in bolstering consumer sentiments. The affordability for the consumer increases immensely with the present offerings as the EMI will be reduced," the bank added.

SBI Home loan interest rates are linked to CIBIL score and start from 6.7 per cent for loans up to ₹75 lakh and 6.75 per cent for loans above ₹75 lakh. Customers can also apply from the ease of their home via YONO App to get additional interest concession of 5 bps. On the eve of International Women's day, a special 5 bps concession is being made available to the women borrowers, the bank noted.

Currently, SBI is the largest mortgage lender in the country. The home loan portfolio of the bank has crossed the milestone of ₹5 lakh crore, it said. As of December 31, 2020, the bank has a deposit base of over ₹35 lakh crore and advances of more than ₹26 lakh crore with a CASA ratio of about 45 per cent. SBI commands over 34 per cent market share in home loans and around 33 per cent in the auto loans segment, the bank said.

Bank of Baroda reports elevated stress during March-December

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PUBLIC sector lender Bank of Baroda has reported elevated levels of stress across different categories, including the special mention accounts of SMA-2 category. This set of loans is most likely to slip into the NPA category.

In a recent placement document, the bank disclosed that its special mention accounts (SMAs), or loans delayed by 1-90 days, has risen sharply to 21.57 per cent of domestic loans, including loans that are yet to slip into NPA given the Supreme Court decision. The management indicated that 110 bps would have been the increase in gross NPL without the ruling. SMA-0 (loans where the repayment is overdue between one and 30 days) stood at 13.4 per cent of total loans, while SMA-1 (between 31 and 60 days) account for 2.6 per cent of total loans and SMA-2 (61 and 90 days) account for 5.5 per cent of loan. If loans overdue by 30 days are excluded, the share of stressed loans is still high.

Loans in the SMA-2 category, included corporate loans worth over ₹16,000 crore and micro and small and medium enterprise loans worth over ₹8,200 crore. Retail loans, seen as a more secure asset class as compared to larger corporate loans, now have an SMA-2 ratio of 1.24 per cent in December, up 66 basis points (bps) from March 2020, the presentation showed.

Recent NSE trading glitch has cost us immensely: FM

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

FINANCE Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Monday asked civil accounts officers to have a clear roadmap for seamless digital payments, stating there are lessons to be learnt from the "technology-driven glitch" that happened recently at National Stock Exchange (NSE).

"Seamlessness of payments is more important,... I will bring it here as an example to say even where complete foolproof systems are laid, you find in NSE a couple of days ago when there was a glitch, a kind of technology-driven glitch, which nobody could have anticipated, but that glitch has caused us immensely and lessons are being learnt," the minister said.

"Maybe that was an issue of interoperability between the two exchanges, but that is the kind of thing where seamless digital payment is the goal that we have to aspire for," the finance minister added.

She was addressing the 45th Civil Accounts Day she said the Controller General of Accounts (CGA). CGA, who is the bookkeeper of government accounts, has adopted great systemic reforms. Sitharaman said that to keep government accounts transparent, the CGA will have to adapt and keep pace with changing technology to keep government accounts transparent.

'Location is a major determinant of living standard'

SUNITHA NATTI

INEQUALITY, to an extent, depends on where you live. That's because, one-third of the variation in living standards in India is due to location, according to an IMF study. It found that consumption levels and locational inequality are positively related and living standards are higher in richer, but more unequal locations.

The working paper authored by Sriram Balasubramaniam, Rishabh Kumar and Praksah Loungani outlines two trends. The first is the well-documented decline in rural poverty in India since the 1980s — the lowest rural deciles on average saw some of the highest growth rates. Secondly, the middle class at the aggregate level appears relatively flat, with the top decile capturing the highest growth. "The basic takeaway is that an economic migrant can, on average, expect to be better off in the lower classes of urban Indian than in the middle class of rural India. Given that rural India offers much lower living standards on average, a person may be indifferent to their relative class position and prefer the absolute gains emanating despite moving down in the class hierarchy," the authors note.

But, just how much of the variation in living standards can be explained solely based on location? The authors believe that while there's substantial regional variation across states in industrialization and development, internal migration is not constrained by state boundaries. In essence, if location turns out to be an important determinant of living standards, then domestic migration can act as a low-cost option to move up the opportunity ladder.

According to estimates, about nine million migrate every year. It means, about 139 million of the 1.3 billion Indians are migrants. This paradox of absolute versus relative gains underpins the challenge of inclusive growth in a developing economy.

Growth and poverty reduction move hand-in-hand, with the former eventually overriding initial inequalities, but the study shows that the growing rural-urban gap and divergence in growth across states exacerbates the otherwise slow rise of consumption inequality in India. These gaps have created significant location premiums, which explain between 25-31 per cent of the variation in living standards. While class is an important determinant of consumption, the rural vs urban location also plays a significant role. This is one potential explanation of the persistence of migration from rural to urban India despite the latter contributing to growing inequality.

Shared mobility driving Uber's business recovery

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Bengaluru

AFTER witnessing almost 90 per cent drop in revenues since March 2020, the shared mobility sector is gradually recovering. Cab aggregator Uber said on Monday that low-cost shared mobility like Auto and Moto is driving its recovery in India. Uber said that its revenues from Auto rental services now has exceeded pre-Covid-19 levels with Mumbai, Delhi, Hyderabad, Mysore, Bhubaneswar, Nagpur, Indore, Nashik and Kochi showcasing the strongest growth.

Uber's auto rental services have faced several hiccups in a market where low-cost shared mobility is preferred. Uber re-launched its Auto services in 2018 in a tightly contested space and with homegrown players such as Ola. Uber said that in a market like India, auto continues to transform the traditional street hail model. Rival Ola also recently said that its auto sharing business has beaten cab hailing services in a new normal shaped by Covid. Both Ola and Uber had laid off thousands of its employees post the lockdown.

HOME ADVANTAGE

Axar's unassuming backstory is in Nadiad, the place where he grew up dreaming of becoming the next Wasim Akram

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Ahmedabad

AROUND an hour on the Ahmedabad-Vadadora Highway gets you to Nadiad, an old fashioned town. It looks wealthy yet simple. It is almost a given that at least one member from each family in Nadiad will head to the US for work.

The Rajkiran household is an exception. It is the home of Axar Patel, or Akshar Patel as he is known to his family. Even if you are a newcomer to this locality, it is impossible to lose your way as everyone in these parts know where it is. It is possible that most people living here would have visited the Rajkiran household at some point as their family have a tradition of live screening matches that the all-rounder plays.

"We can't accommodate everyone inside, which is why we put up a projector outside," says Sankship, Axar's cousin.

The house that the Patels live in is a typical Indian middle-class one. Apart from a high-end TV and a PlayStation 4, their drawing room if filled with the trophies Axar has picked up. It's so full there's no more room to accommodate anymore. The almirahs are filled with trophies, from age-group cricket to the IPL. "We'd this one shelf. And after it got full, we made another one on top. Even that is full now. When we build a new house, we will ensure there is a big one which can fill all his trophies," says Rajesh, Axar's father. Axar's bedroom, his favourite spot in the house, doesn't have anything beyond the ordinary. A couple of his photos adore the walls of the room, which are not beyond 13x10 feet.

While the spinner's entry into the Test level is what's making the headlines, it's easy to forget he made the 2015 World Cup squad less than than a year after making his debut. And it looks like the house hasn't underdone a sea change since then. Like Axar, the house looks simple. But with all the money that comes from IPL, it is understandable that there are a few elegant flourishes, a sign of the left-armer's rise in the game since his Ranji days. A two-wheeler that the 27-year-old used to take for practice isn't there. But there are additions: Creta, Land Rover and a Verna. Both the Creta and Land Rover are parked under a cement-sheet shelter outside the house.

"After making it to the Ranji team he bought a Verna. Only after he made it to the Indian team, he bought Creta and now the badda wala(big one)," says Rajesh. "He's fond of cars and phones. When he's at home, he just asks for simple food because he doesn't get it outside," his mother, Priti, said.

Growing up, cricket didn't happen by chance. Apart from being a class-topper in school, Axar was also serious about cricket. He had wanted to be a pacer like Wasim Akram (some of his India teammates call him Wasim even now because of his pace). An injury to his leg put paid to those hopes so he switched to left-arm spin. In Nadiad, he was also known as a hard-hitting batsman. "He was among those sought out in tennis ball cricket. It was only after he made it to the state team that he started bowling more," Rajesh says.

Although cricket became his life when he was 13, it was a camp at the National Cricket Academy in 2012 that changed Axar's life. Overseen by Sunil Joshi and R Venkatramana, his pace stood out even then. While most spinners are instructed to flight the ball, he was given options.

"Thanks to his height and accuracy, we thought it's good to stick to his strengths," says Venkatramana, who Axar credited during the third Test for teaching him to bowl straight. "He is a smart cricketer. With such ones, you just need to guide, they will handle the rest."

Shooting trials deferred, lifting nationals in doubt

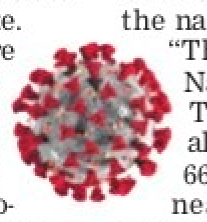
FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

WITH several states reporting a fresh surge in coronavirus cases, sporting activities that began recently in the country after a prolonged forced break have started feeling its impact like the past year.

Shotgun selection trials scheduled to commence in Bhopal from Wednesday have already been postponed while the fate of national weightlifting championships slated from March 13 to 17 in Nagercoil, Tamil Nadu, hangs in balance.

"Due to sudden surge in Covid cases, it has been decided to postpone trials 3 and 4, which were scheduled at Bhopal from March 3 to 14. Fresh dates and venue will be notified shortly," said the National Rifle Association of India (NRAI) in a statement posted on its website.

The skeet shooters were scheduled to compete from March 3 to 8 while the trials for the trap shooters were proposed from March 9 to 14 in Bhopal. The list of those eligible for the trials comprised 86 trap shooters (49 men and 37 women) and 62 skeet shooters (40 men and 22 women). NRAI had said that scores of these trials will be considered for selecting the team for the ISSF World Cup scheduled in Italy.



Meanwhile, the Indian Weightlifting Federation (IWLF) is revisiting its decision to hold the nationals in Tamil Nadu.

"The event is scheduled in Nagercoil, Kanyakumari. Trivandrum international airport, which is around 66km from the city, is the nearest airport, but the Kerala government has enforced fresh travel restrictions specifying seven-day self-quarantine for domestic travellers. Most of our officials and participants were expected to land at the airport. Besides, other states like Maharashtra too have come up with strict guidelines in the wake of rising Covid cases," said Pon Robert Singh, Tamil Nadu Weightlifting Association's president.

The TN association chief though said preparations are on to conduct the event, but a final call would be taken after getting approval from the district administration and the parent body IWLF. "The host unit will let us know the situation following which we will decide on the issue. A decision will be taken in a day or two," said Sahdev Yadav, IWLF's secretary-general.

Relearning the science of swimming

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

POST his first meeting with Genadijus Sokolovas, Srihari Nataraj was hit by an epiphany. At some level, he realised he had to relearn swimming. "A little bit," he tells this paper when asked if he realised what Sokolovas was telling him amounted to 'relearning' the sport he had been involved for almost 15 years.

That's not surprising. Sokolovas, who spent nearly a week in India, is one of the foremost leaders in the science of swimming in the world. His CV includes advising the likes of Michael Phelps so it's not a surprise to see Nataraj, a swimmer with bags of potential, speak like that.

"This session will make a big difference," he says. So what did the US-based Dr G, as he is fondly known, pass on. "I was already working on my stroke and session gives a better idea of what's going on. He told me where my hands should go, where the legs should go and learning to swim with the body as a whole."

What does he mean by that? "Our entire body is connected. For example, in backstroke (Nataraj's speciality), when I don't rotate enough, I'm basically pulling with my arms. But when I get in the rotation and my pull isn't too deep, I'm pulling from my core. Doing that, I can increase my power and I will be more in control."

The multiple national record-holder is emphatic in his assessment that once he gets the hang of introducing these 'small changes', he can go faster but cautioned that "it's a process, it won't happen overnight."

Squash doubles camp in April

SRINIDHI PR @Chennai

AFTER more than a year, the country's top squash players will be regrouping for a national camp in the first week of April in Chennai. The Squash Federation of India (SRFI) confirmed that it will be a doubles-specific camp.

The plan is to conduct the camp after the 2nd HCL SRFI Indian Tour — the first Professional Squash Association (PSA) Challenger event in India since the coronavirus pandemic — which will be held from March 27 to March 31 in Chennai. As most of the top 15 players, barring a few, are from different parts of the country, the federation thought it will be ideal to hold a camp right away after the event than assemble them later to cut down the risk associated with travel during the pandemic.

The SRFI has sent out an email on Sunday to all the top players asking for their confirmation. The likes of Saurav Ghosal, Velavan Senthilkumar and Joshna Chinappa are expected to attend the camp. "We are looking at conducting a camp for top 13 players each from the men's and women's categories from April 1 for five days," Cyrus Poncha, SRFI's secretary-general, told this daily. "Since the top athletes will anyway be taking part in the PSA event in March, we thought it will be ideal for them to stay back and participate in the camp."

The coaches at the Indian Squash Academy in Chennai will be in charge of the camp. Initially, there were plans of bringing in Australia David Palmer, who has conducted special camps in the past. However, it is understood that he has expressed inability to fly out of the country until June-July.

Altantic Ocean current at its weakest in a millennium

One of Earth's major ocean circulation systems that redistribute heat on our planet and affect climate in a big way is weakening substantially, scientists reported in Nature Geoscience recently. The Atlantic Meridional Overturning Circulation (AMOC), whose fictional breakdown was featured famously in the 2004 film The Day After Tomorrow, is slowing, potentially affecting Europe's climate and US sea levels

A REITERATION

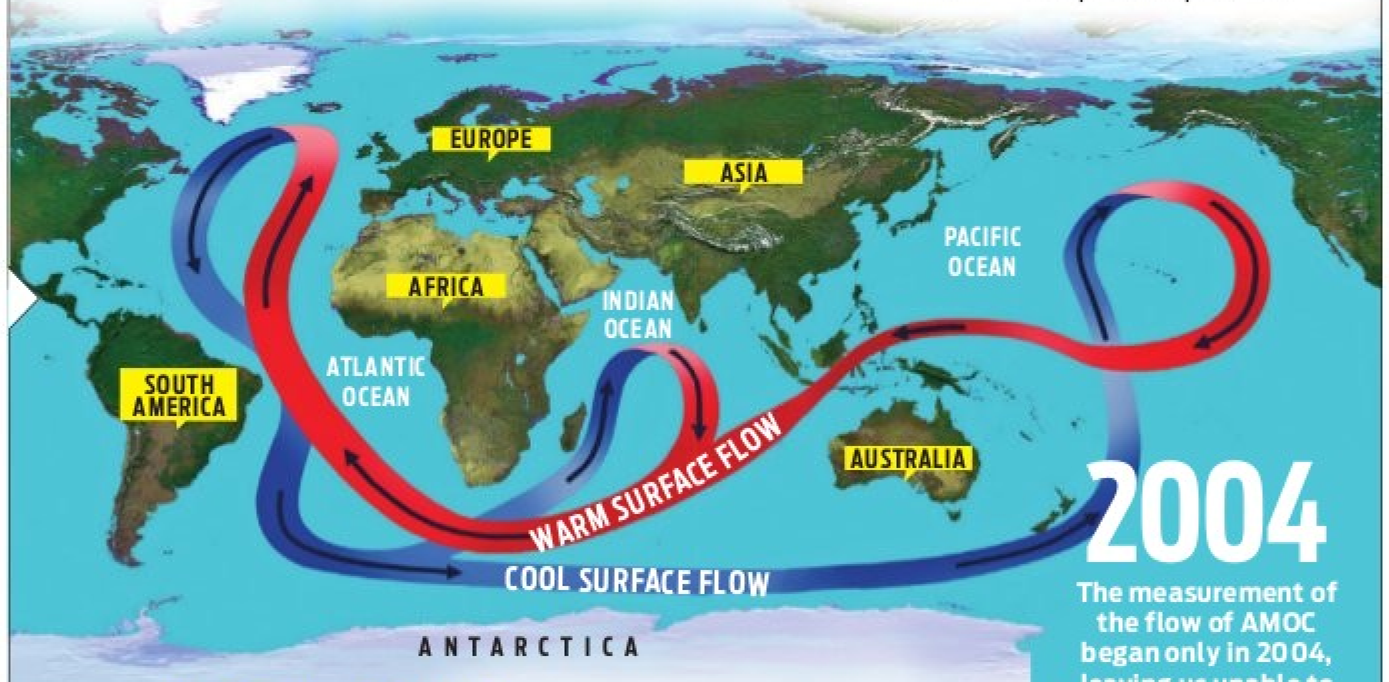
Evidence of the weakening of this system of ocean currents has been published before. The new research reinforces this with 11 sources of proxy evidence, including clues in seafloor mud and ocean temperature patterns

GLOBAL IMPACT

The AMOC carries heat northward, leaving Europe in a moderate, pleasant climatic state. The AMOC's circulation could be weakening due partly to global warming, which is melting glaciers and ice caps, which releases fresh water into the ocean

The fresh water lowers the saline content, making the ocean less dense and thereby the water harder to sink (water with more salt sinks readily). Without the sinking, the AMOC slows down considerably

Since everything is connected globally, the slowdown in the AMOC would have an impact on other countries too, especially if the current slows by 34%-45%, hitting a tipping point



GLOBAL OCEAN CONVEYOR BELT

Waters are in constant motion on the global oceans, their movements determined by thermohaline currents (thermo = temperature; haline = salinity) in the deep as well as wind-spurred currents on the surface

1,000 YEARS

it can take for water to the travel the length of this conveyor belt, aka Meridional Overturning Circulation

2004

The measurement of the flow of AMOC began only in 2004, leaving us unable to gauge long-term changes in its behaviour

WHAT NEW RESEARCH SAYS

From 400 to 1900 AD, the AMOC was relatively stable. Proxy indicators suggest a decline after that period

1960s

There was a particularly rapid decrease around this time. Past research has indicated a 15% slowdown in circulation since

1950s

IMPORTANCE OF AMOC

The Atlantic Meridional Overturning Circulation is the engine of the global ocean conveyor belt, scientists say

4 BILLION

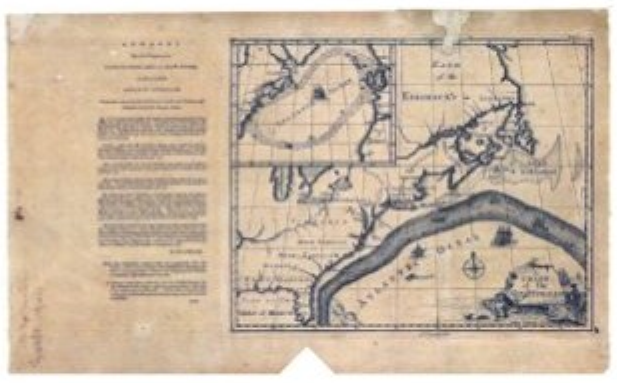
cubic feet of water per second is transported by the Gulf Stream, which is larger than the volume in all the world's rivers combined. And the Gulf Stream is only a part of the AMOC, which in turn is part of the conveyor belt

6.4 KM/HR

average speed of AMOC

300 TIMES

Off the US Atlantic seabed, the AMOC speeds up to nearly 300 times faster than the Amazon River



FIRST CHARTED IN 18TH CENTURY

Benjamin Franklin, the polymath inventor and a Founding Father of the United States, was the first to chart the Gulf Stream, in 1775, as shown in the map above. The current was observed earlier in 1513 by European colonist Juan Ponce de León. Franklin could do the mapping only due to help from his cousin, Timothy Folger, a merchant-ship captain

MEDICINE

DHAKA: In an industrial neighborhood on the outskirts of Bangladesh's largest city lies a factory with gleaming new equipment imported from Germany, its immaculate hallways lined with hermetically sealed rooms. It is operating at just a quarter of its capacity.

It is one of three factories that The Associated Press found on three continents whose owners say they could start producing hundreds of millions of Covid-19 vaccines on short notice if only they had the blueprints and technical know-how. But that knowledge belongs to the large pharmaceutical companies who produce the first three vaccines authorized by countries including Britain, the European Union and the U.S. — Pfizer, Moderna and AstraZeneca. The factories are all still awaiting responses.

Across Africa and Southeast Asia, governments and aid groups, as well as the World Health Organization, are calling on pharmaceutical companies to share their patent information more broadly to meet a yawning global shortfall in a pandemic that already has claimed over 2.5 million lives. Pharmaceutical companies that took taxpayer money from the U.S. or Europe to develop inoculations at unprecedented speed say they are negotiating contracts and exclusive licensing deals with producers on a case-by-case basis because they need to protect their intellectual property and ensure safety.

Lab techs label inspected vaccine vials inside the Incepta plant on the outskirts of Dhaka in Bangladesh | AP

Critics say this piecemeal approach is just too slow at a time of urgent need to stop the virus before it mutates into even deadlier forms. WHO called for vaccine manufacturers to share their know-how to "dramatically increase the global supply."

"If that can be done, then immediately overnight every continent will have dozens of companies who would be able to produce these vaccines," said Abdul Muktadir, whose Incepta plant in Bangladesh already makes vaccines against hepatitis, flu, meningitis, rabies, tetanus and measles.

All over the world, the supply of coronavirus vaccines is falling far short of demand, and the limited amount available is going to rich countries. Nearly 80% of the vaccines so far have been administered in just 10 countries, according to WHO.

In South Africa, home to the world's most worrisome COVID-19 variant, the Biovac factory has said for weeks that it's in negotiations with an unnamed manufacturer with no contract to show for it. And in Denmark, the Bavarian Nordic factory has capacity to spare and the ability to make more than 200 million doses but is also waiting for word from the producer of a licensed coronavirus vaccine.

Waiver war at WTO

The World Trade Organization faces calls led by India and South Africa to waive intellectual property rights for Covid-19 vaccines -- a notion fiercely rejected by pharmaceutical giants and their host countries.

The WTO will thrash out the divisive issue at its general council meeting on Monday and Tuesday as its new head Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala takes up her post.

The IP plan was filed by India and South Africa on October 2 and garnered support from a host of developing countries which -- correctly -- anticipated being left behind in the vaccination race.

The text proposes a temporary exemption from certain obligations under the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS), so that any country can produce vaccines without worrying about patents. The waiver would also cover "industrial designs, copyright and protection of undisclosed information", and would last "until widespread vaccination is in place globally, and the majority of the world's population has developed immunity".

Bharath Raj on the making of his Hero

PG 4

DAY'S DIARY

Movie premiere

One of the most famous classic adventure-horror films of all time, King Kong opened in New York's Radio City Music Hall on this day in 1933

THE PLOT

Merian C Cooper and Ernest B Schoedsack conceived the story of a beautiful woman and a frightening, 50 foot ape-monster as a metaphoric re-telling of Beauty and the Beast

A REVOLUTION

The film contained many revolutionary technical innovations for its time — rear projection, miniature models about 18 inches in height, and trick photography

THE MODEL

The 18-inch model of King Kong was made from a metal mesh skeleton, a mixture of rubber and foam for the muscle structure and rabbit fur for his hair

Let it snow

If you're feeling travel blues, check out Sharmiela Mandre's Instagram feed for scenic views. She posted some pictures of herself amid the snow- clad mountains of Kazakhstan, where she's shooting for her next: Gaalipata 2. Alongside one photo, Sharmiela wrote about how it was so cold that she couldn't open her eyes. In another one, she shared a slow motion video of her playing with snow, where she wrote, "Happiness is what you make of it". The mountain air sure seems to suit her!

Sweating it out

Bengaluru boy Mayank Agarwal is sweating it out at the gym. He has a motivating tip for his followers. "It's about effort. And when you bring that effort every single day, that's where transformation happens. #WorkHardPlayHard," the cricketer said, sharing a photograph on social media.

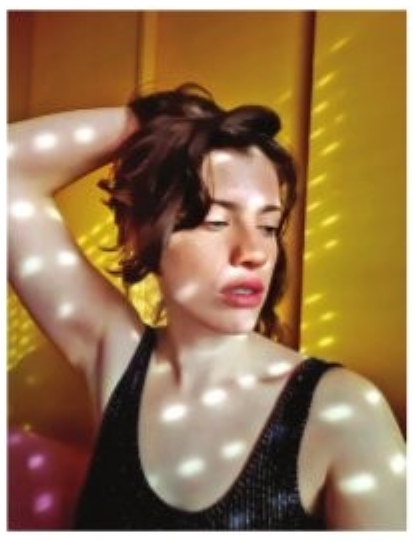
Blending her profession and passion of meeting people from different parts of the world, city-based photographer Apoorva Prasad is creating a photo series of people from different countries

MONIKA MONALISA



Shots of the models (anti-clockwise from left bottom) from the United Kingdom, United States, Argentina, Finland and Australia captured virtually

THE year 2020 was a huge spoiler as far as travel plans were concerned. It was no different for city-based photographer Apoorva Prasad. In an attempt to bring together her profession and passion of meeting people from different parts of the world, she is doing a photo series of people from different countries. She has until now covered 20 countries by shooting 50 models and plans to continue her series on her Instagram page (@apoorva_prasad).

Staying within the confines of four walls for more than eight months has taught people to try out innovative ideas to deal with situations. For Prasad, it was a similar case. Her love for photography was so much that physical restrictions could not stop her from clicking the muse she loves the most – people. "During the lockdown I was introduced to virtual shoots, which helped me with my urge to photograph more and more people. But subconsciously, it opened a window to the world which was right in my room," says the 24-year-old photographer who shot the images on apps like Zoom, Google Duo and Shutterbug. It became a new hobby which allowed her to interact with more people, virtually. "I reach out to models through hashtags of the city. If my style of work matched theirs, I took it forward," says Prasad, who has been doing photography for the last 6-7 years.

She adds that people from different countries have different facial features and skin textures and accordingly, she changed her approach of taking pictures. "This also turned into a lesson in photography for me," says Prasad who has worked with models from countries like Japan, Finland, Mexico, Jamaica, Australia, etc. Speaking about the 'new friends' that she worked with, the first thing she noticed was their professionalism, unlike her previous experiences. "Though it was a friendly project, all of them treated it like any other other professional project and were sharp on time. For instance, all of them arranged their own props," says Prasad.

However, language was a huge barrier for the young photographer. "I was shooting with an Argentinian model and we had a communication gap because neither of us understood each others' language. I had to literally do the poses and tell her what to do,"says Prasad, adding that with so many travel restrictions, these pictures are like her passport to the world.

'This story is a paean to humanity'

... says writer-filmmaker Asghar Wajahat, who was in Bengaluru for the staging of his play, Jissney Lahore Nai Dekhya

BALA CHAUHAN

That she could become a playwright's muse was the last thing on her mind when mai (mother) – a lone elderly Punjabi Hindu woman in Lahore – was trying to figure out her survival in Pakistan, when she refused to come to India after Partition.

Four decades later, and across the border, a scant piece of information on her led Asghar Wajahat – a well-known Hindi playwright, novelist and documentary maker from Uttar Pradesh (UP) – to pen Jissney Lahore Nai Dekhya (Those who have not seen Lahore) in 1989. The play is not about the pain of Partition. "It is a paean to insaniyat (humanity)," said Wajahat in an exclusive talk with CE on the sidelines of the show in Bengaluru. The play, directed by Zafer Mohiuddin, was staged at the Alliance Francaise on Sunday. "It highlights the mindset, which divides people on the basis of nationality, ethnicity, religion, caste, race and language, among many other things, and what humanity can do to bring people together," added Wajahat.

"The characters in the play, from a cleric who, when confronted with the question whether a Hindu could live in Pakistan, says that the earth belongs to God and anyone could live anywhere, to the character of real life poet Naser Kazmi, who says that an artiste's world has no boundaries, believe in togetherness," he said. Besides raising the existential questions on life, its driving and dividing forces, the play has portrayed strong women characters. In fact, their roles have highlighted how patriarchy has sidelined their voices. "A daughter of a family that provides shelter to mai asks her mother that if a Hindu could live at ease with a Muslim family where was the need for Partition? In reply, her mother says, "Tum apney abba sey poochho (ask your father)."

"It says a lot about male dominance and the absence of women's voices in decision making," said Wajahat.

Contrary to its spirit and the message it aims to send across, performing Jissney Lahore Nai Dekhya has not been an easy task. "When the play was taken to Karachi, the director of the play Khaled Ahmed was refused permission by the Pakistani authorities. They objected on the grounds that a Hindu was the protagonist of the play; that the playwright was Indian and that the killing of a religious cleric in the play sends a wrong message in an Islamic country. Ahmed did stage the play at Goethe Institute in Karachi. In Meerut, in UP, permission to stage the play was denied because its title is Lahore and the authorities felt that it was about Pakistan," he smirked.

"It is ironical that Jissney Lahore nai Dekhya has raised issues surrounding the myth of 'us versus them.' It is about ironing out the creases and celebrating human relationships, above all," said the veteran playwright.

Wajahat is also an avid traveller, who looks forward to visiting people-oriented places. "I love meeting people wherever I go," he said. From being invited to weddings by newly-made friends to being caught on the wrong side of law are some of the many anecdotes in Wajahat's travelogue.

Sound engineer Anish Ponnanna releases Season 2 of The Engineer's Pick, featuring Indian songs in minimalistic style

MONIKA MONALISA

There is nothing like good soulful music which can help you get through any mood of the day. If you are always on the lookout for such music, then sound engineer Anish Ponnanna's The Engineer's Pick, which includes curated Indian songs with minimalistic style, is something you should check out. After the popularity of Season 1 which featured artistes like MD Pallavi, Shilpa Mudbi, etc, Ponnanna is out with his Season 2 and is already making some waves, with the YouTube channel clocking 66,000 followers.

Going back to how it all started, Ponnanna says the idea was to create a platform for "lesser-known yet talented artistes" who would get a platform to showcase their experiments. "As a sound engineer, I was frustrated with how musicians almost never get to express their music to its full potential due to reasons like event manager restrictions, clients requirement, bad acoustics at a venue, etc. So I decided to create an environment where the performers had nothing between them and their music," says Ponnanna, who has worked with bands like Indian Ocean, Swarathma, and music producer Clinton Cerejo.

Getting into the details about how the songs were composed and recorded, Ponnanna says that once he picks the two artistes, he gives leeway to the singer to pick the song and lets both artistes come up with their own composition. To capture their raw emotions, the video is recorded in one take and is treated like a live show. The final audio is released with minimum treatment as he believes that music should be accepted with its imperfections. For instance, an episode features Kannada playback singer Aishwarya Rangarajan, and musician Dr Prakash Sontakke who is known for his mastery of the Hawaiian slide guitar. If heard carefully, the sound of Rangarajan's bangles is also apparent. And Ponnanna has retained this.

Currently in Kodagu, Ponnanna travels to Bengaluru for all the shoots and recordings of the videos. Without much planning in mind, the 31-year old sound engineer started this idea in 2018. While the second season got pushed to the end of 2019, it's now taking off with sponsors having come on board. "Right now there are around five episodes which are already shot and will be out soon," he says, adding that projects of such nature don't yield much monetary benefits."However, I am doing this purely for the love of music," he says.

FIT BIT

SUPTA GOMUKHASANA

(RECLINED COW FACE POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'Supta' means reclined, 'go' means cow, 'mukha' means face and asana means pose. It is less challenging unlike the traditional Gomukhasana. This supine variation makes for easy access of opening the joints of the hips and knees, including the gluteus maximus and lower back muscles. Students can work on increasing the range of motion of the hips with the static stretch in the hamstrings and quadriceps muscles. It is similar to the Shoelace Pose that forms part of the yin yoga sequences. A major advantage of doing this asana is the relief obtained from sciatica and its nerve pain from the lumbar (lower) spine.

STEPS

- Sit with your legs stretched out. Then, bend your left leg and bring the foot under the right hip.
- Then, bend your right leg over the left leg and draw it towards the left hip.
- Now, keep your right knee on the left one. Without raising, bend your left hand behind and bring the palm up.
- To complete the supine practice of warming and opening the hips, from Supine Spinal Twist Eagle Legs Pose, come to Reclined Cow Face Pose.
- Continue with the interlocked thighs, but use the hands to pull or hold the legs at the ankles for better support.
- Now, exhale and press the interlocked legs towards you feeling the stretch around the hips and the inner thighs.
- Keep the back settled on the floor and stay with inhaling and exhaling to maintain the balance here in this pose, for six breaths.
- Loosen up and stretch with exhalation. Notice that the knees may not be one above the other here, but yet this opening of the hips will slowly and eventually bring the alignment perfect.

BENEFITS

- Reduces pressure on lower back, opens hips and stretches thighs.
- Referred to as Reclined Shoelace Pose. The focus in this variation is on the urinary bladder meridian, which benefits those having incontinence.
- It can be crucial to strengthen and condition athletes.
- Increases flexibility in hip joints and hamstrings making it a foundation pose for many advanced asanas.

LIMITATIONS

- People with very stiff shoulders have to take it slow and easy.
- Gives extreme stretch to upper arms and wrists. Be cautious while practising.
- Those who have hip problems or injury at the knee, hamstring, and quadriceps, avoid this.

— by N Elumalai, PhD scholar (Yoga Science) at Meenakshi Academy of Higher Education & Research, Chennai

BREAKING THE SILENCE

Here's a book that helps parents and children discuss topics like child sexual abuse and personal safety in an interactive manner

Every Kid's Personal Safety Book
SAFE OVER SORRY
Sudhalini Devadason and Ishwarya Kumar Ahmed

EXPRESS FEATURES

IN a world where children are no longer safe anywhere, parents and educators can't afford to brush over disturbing but much-needed topics of discussion like personal safety and child sexual abuse. While these conversations may be difficult to have, two women, who are mothers themselves, have come up with a book that may help make this job easier. Safe Over Sorry (SOS) has been penned by city-based Ishwarya Kumar Ahmed and Chennai-based Sudhalini Devadason, who are the co-founders of Upturn Learning, a community organisation that works on socially responsible topics in the realm of parenting and childhood.

Over the course of 66 pages, the interactive and illustrative workbook presents activities and age-appropriate safety lessons, to introduce children to the concept of personal safety. Some of the topics it covers are safe-unsafe feelings and how to deal with them, recognising and dealing with inappropriate touches, dealing with strangers and standing up to bullying. "We believe it is important to say it early, say it often, and say it clearly. The book is targeted at kids aged between four and seven years," says Devadason.

The main characters of the book are Mia, a 6-year old girl, and Zac, her classmate and best friend, who talk about topics that they learn every day related to personal safety. While the book can be read in one sitting, Devadason and Ahmed recommend taking one topic at a time. Each chapter of the book has the following sections: An introduction for the parent/educator to help understand the objective of the topic, illustration-based content for the child to read and discuss with the parent or educator, activities that bring the learning to life, and a 'Let's Chat' section at the end of every chapter that encourages a discussion to recap what the child has learned.

ACTIVITY: WHAT WOULD YOU DO IF?

The book took a couple of years in the making, with the women conceptualising the idea way back in 2018. "We felt that children need to be prepared with 'what if' questions for scenarios. We interacted with schools, corporates, parents and children mainly as part of our initial research. We used modalities like panel discussions, focus groups, interviews and surveys. Besides this, we also reached out to experts in the US who have been working on prevention of child sexual abuse for decades and did a deep dive analysis of the kind of content that works without threatening children in anyway about the world around them," explains Ahmed, who adds that the book has a lot to do with their motherhood. "It was certainly an emotional process because our own children flash in front of our eyes in every chapter of the book."

And the two women want to help as many children as possible. "For each copy of Safe Over Sorry sold, we promise to train one underprivileged child on personal safety awareness. We have collaborated with NGOs to help implement this. So it's not only for people who have children this age. It is for corporates, donors, parenting groups, anyone who wants to be part of this movement in building awareness about personal safety among children," says Devadason.

The book is available on Amazon and Flipkart for ₹499.

OF ODDS AND ODD BELIEFS

Pallavi Srivastava
Editor, City Express
spallavi@newindianexpress.com

There are two things that others may take with a pinch of salt but I absolutely love – conspiracy theories and coincidences. I am one of those people who cry out "what are the odds" very often, just as someone I haven't spoken to in years, calls or messages me shortly after a chance mention of them comes up in a conversation with a third person. Many among my friends and family have come to realise that I am hit by coincidences very often. They have also given up trying to understand my fascination with conspiracy theories.

The two, I think, are unrelated, of course (until a psychological theory explains it, or maybe it already does but is yet to interest me). Anyway, this weekend, I came across both, in separate instances. The coincidence was relatively smaller compared to some bizarre ones I have experienced in the past – a discussion on fake news with my son leading him to ask me about the hoax of the black monkey that had spread in Delhi years ago, which in turn led me to Rakeysh Omprakash Mehra's Abhishek Bachchan-starrer Delhi-6, followed by our startled glances at each other as the Sasural genda phool song from the same movie started playing on television.

Coming to conspiracy theories, after a casual talk about Ancient Aliens, a colleague recommended I watch Conspiracy, an old series on Netflix. The first episode – on whether Hitler did indeed die on the day he is supposed to – was nowhere close to the interesting stuff you find on the Internet about Netaji and gumnaam baba, or whether the moon landing actually happened, or if the 9/11 attack in the US or, closer home, the Pulwama or even the Godhra incidents were self-inflicted.

Anyway, call it a coincidence, but a routine telephone chat with an elderly aunt soon after woke me up to a conspiracy theory revolving around what some fear is the second wave of the Covid pandemic looming ahead in the country. "The numbers are being drummed up," she said. "This is all a ploy to sell the vaccine, since the virus is dying a natural death here and there are no takers for the jab."

Now, anti-vaxxers have been making noise about it for a long time, connecting most of the not-yet-fully-understood disorders like ADHD and autism to vaccine administration to babies. Add to it the fact that right from the beginning, the coronavirus outbreak has been surrounded by various conspiracy theories, like the disease being biowarfare or nothing but corporate medicine propaganda, and I wish I hadn't read so many Robin Cook novels in the 1990s.

Clearly, this is one conspiracy theory I am not enjoying dwelling into. It's one thing to wonder whether the Nazca Lines were made by extraterrestrial beings. It's quite another when the issue concerns the health of your loved ones. So second wave or not, I am not letting my stock of sanitisers dry up. And as I wrap it up, the news comes in that Prime Minister Narendra Modi has taken his first dose of vaccine. And someone who is extremely wary of the side effects, and questions the available efficacy data vociferously, lost no time in saying to me, "The injection must have been filled with water."

Food for the soul

LOVEOLOGY
Mahesh Natarajan

In the culinary world, fast food ruled the world for decades. Even now, some of the largest commercial success in food are chains of fast food restaurants with their burgers, nuggets, fries and what not, all designed for convenience and a quick return to whatever else one was supposed to be doing, presumably more productively, than preparing and consuming food. One could argue that it was one of capitalism's biggest wins that it was able to convince people that time spent on food was actually time that could be saved, and that cooking was something that should be done as only special occurrences on occasion, or go to special fine dining places on exception when there was something extraordinary to mark or celebrate in one's life. Not only that, the constant communication of the single, working person as getting food quickly before rushing back to work, while fine dining was all about people in relationships, whether dating as a couple or group of adults, or eating out as a family, one can argue, also set food up as something that's just a task if one was single, and only something to be enjoyed when with others.

As we often hear, food is a metaphor for love. Love is food for the soul, for example.

Should love then be fast and easy like fast food places would like you to have it? Something that you just get done with at the quickest, so you can get back to your work? Or should you treat it like a fine dining visit – something you do once in a while, for special occasions, while on an everyday basis, it is a grab-and-go affair? Or, would you like to make something happen every day – and in that, would you quickly put together a meal from whatever's there like a quick dal and rice, or would it be some slow food or things that need thought and preparation, like making idli batter for the week ahead, or making big batches of sourdough, salad dressings and other things, knowing you'll have them through the week?

Do you make time and take mental space to think about how and what you'd have for food in your day? Do you similarly, make time and take mind space to be sure to love and feel loved in your day?

With the big rise of the fast food industry, the counter push of "slow food fast," everyday pret and much else has also come to claim spaces and even demand that it is a lifestyle. Even more, there is much attention to how we need slower and more thoughtful food for not just our health but the world's future. Medical professionals and others call for attention to how and what we eat, asking us to make the effort and to not treat hunger as just something to deal with efficiently.

Slow food and slow living is making its voice heard as what's needed for our individual lives and the world's future. Do we need love too to be similarly a more mindful, positive experience everyday?

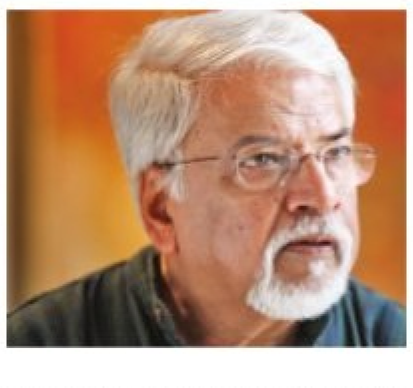
S G Vasudev's upcoming show, which coincidentally opens on his 80th birthday, displays 40 works made by the veteran artist, as he returns to collage-making after four decades

SIMRAN AHUJA

For S G Vasudev, inspiration is everywhere. The veteran artist's upcoming show – titled Montage of Memories – is an exhibition of collages made by him in the past five or six months. "I've used different things to create the work, from wedding invites and magazine clippings to even images from a coffee table book written on me," says Vasudev, whose show, coincidentally, opens on his 80th birthday, which is March 3. The works will be on display at Gallery Sumukha and gallery director Premilla Baid says, "It's also the 25th anniversary of the gallery and I thought it would only be right to ask S G Vasudev to do a show for this occasion. After all, he has contributed so much to the city's art scene."

The show also marks Vasudev's return to making collages after 1978-79. Back then, the artist – who received the National Award from the All India Lalit Kala Akademi in 1967 – had made four collages, which were exhibited at the National Gallery of Modern Art, Bengaluru and Mumbai. "I found myself wondering why I didn't do collages anymore. But this time, I combined drawings with black and white pens and acrylic liners as well, instead of just sticking to paper cut," says Vasudev, who created over 80 such pieces, of which 40 are now on display. "I would make 2-3 pieces every day. Making a collage may seem simple but it is hardly so. Sometimes, the cut paper suggests a form and I have to work around it. It's like mathematics," laughs the artist, while continuing, "You create the problem and then solve it. The final look is not pre-determined, you put down the paper arbitrarily and work with it," he says.



In over six decades of his career, the artist has created many memorable works, of which he till date gets enquiries for his 'Vriksha' (Tree of Life) and 'Theatre of Life' series. "But I don't like to recreate something unless I feel called to. What excites me is finding something new. The tree has been a big inspiration in my earlier works and it is there in these new works too, but it's not the same as it was 25-30 years ago," says Vasudev, who has collaborated with artistes from other fields as well. Most notably, his body of work also includes creating costumes and masks for Girish Karnad's Hayavadana, cover design for U R Ananthamurthy's books and being the art director for Kannada movies Samskara and Vamsha Vriksha.

"These collaborations between sister art forms are important. They don't happen overnight but each craft is significant, and it's interesting to see how an artist can evolve from this," says Vasudev, whose only advice to artists of the current generation is to work hard and not chase money. "The latter will come," says Vasudev, who clocks in 4-5 hours of artwork daily. "And I'll say the same to younger artists as well. It's important to keep your mind and hands active and moving."

The exhibition will be held from March 3 - 27 at Gallery Sumukha, Wilson Garden

BHARATH RAJ
ON THE MAKING OF HIS HERO

The debutant director says his upcoming film starring Rishab Shetty and Ganavi Laxman wouldn't have got made if the Covid-19 pandemic hadn't hit us

Rishab Shetty and M Bharath Raj

A SHARADHAA

DEBUTANT director M Bharath Raj is among those who got to make the most of the lockdown. Talking about his first directorial venture, Hero, he recalls a comment made by a well-wisher that if it weren't for the Covid-19 pandemic, this film wouldn't have happened. "These words made me realise that without Covid or the lockdown, this project wouldn't have taken off at all. The idea of making this film came while we were asked to spend time at home," says Bharath, ahead of his film's release on March 5. The action-comedy adventure also allowed him to direct Rishab Shetty in the role of a hairstylist in the movie, which also stars Ganavi Laxman as the heroine, along with Pramod Shetty and Manju of Ugramm fame.

"The film was triggered out of frustration among our group. It was a time when fear lurked in us about entertainment and its future, and whether theatres will reopen, and if they did, whether the audience will get back to watching films on the big screen. We wondered if OTT is the future, and whether we should all adopt that format. All these and more were part of our daily discussions, and we decided that irrespective of the platform — theatre, OTT, or even YouTube — we will show our film to the audience, and that's how Hero began," recounts Bharath.

According to the first-time director, the film that began with an impromptu script about a situation that takes place in one day. "We had to come up with a story in line with the Covid restrictions in place at that time, like the presence of a limited crew. We were brainstorming a script involving two characters and one location. We had even planned and discussed a short film," says Bharath, adding that more than the size of the project, what mattered was the content, and how it can engage the audience. "We had half the script ready when we began the shooting, and the second half was done while we were on the sets. That's when a couple of more actors were added," he says.

> Before entering the sets, I had a discussion with Rishab, and I told him that if I am the director, I like to take the entire responsibility. Rishab made sure that I executed the project without any interference from anybody in the crew. All of them stood as support

Ask him about the challenges of directing a film when you have a well-known director and actor like Rishab Shetty playing the lead role, and he replies, "When I narrated the story, and how it can be executed, the team was convinced and gave me the signal to wield the megaphone. I wanted Laughing Buddha, starring Pramod Shetty, to be my directorial debut, but Hero happened." He adds that he did discuss the issue with Rishab before taking up the directorial responsibilities. "Before entering the sets, I had a discussion with Rishab, and I told him that if I am the director, I like to take the entire responsibility. Rishab made sure that I executed the project without any interference from anybody in the crew. All of them stood as support," says Bharath.

The director makes special mention of cinematographer Arvind Kashyap and stunt master Vikram Mor, from whom he got to learn a lot. Hero has been made under the banner of RishabShetty Films, and has music composed by Ajaneesh B Loknath.

The film's title was decided during the first cut. "Ashoka Vana was one of the titles chosen, and it was my favourite one too, but it could not be finalised," says Bharath. "While watching the film at the edit desk, I revisited the whole incident, and whatever the character goes through. That's when I felt that he is a Hero. Secondly, our characters don't have particular names, and we would address them as hero, heroine, villain. This also became one of the reasons to title the film Hero. However, Rishab's concern was that the symbolic title would be very strong on him, and then we balanced it with George Bernard Shaw's line - 'You cannot be a hero without being a coward'. An incident can turn a normal person into a hero, and the title sums up the basic line of our story," he adds.

> It's about the orthodox Indian marriage system. There are certain norms, which are being compulsively followed over generations and don't make any sense in today's world. Our millennials follow it due to societal pressure and the film addresses basic issues which are ignored by us and considered normal

Kabir Thapar's next explores Indian marriage system

CE FEATURES

FILMMAKER Kabir Thapar's next explores the orthodox Indian marriage system. The film features Delhi Crime fame Sanjay Bishnoi, Saadhika Syal (Rejctx), Neeta Mohindra (MS Dhoni: The Untold Story) and others. The shoot of the film is currently happening in Delhi.

Kabir's last film, Smile Simi, was released to positive responses on Disney+ Hotstar. It explores the impact of depression during the coronavirus crisis.

Speaking about his new venture, the director says, "It's about the orthodox Indian marriage system. Our millennials follow it due to societal pressure and the film addresses basic issues which are ignored by us and considered normal."

He says his main objective behind the film is to break stereotypes attached with the marriage system.

On his recent release, Smile Simi, Kabir adds, "Interestingly, the film has turned out to be an eye-opener. It not only created awareness like never before but also with the help of mouth publicity, many people have started taking action after watching it. The film is serving its purpose in a big way as it teaches you to save yourself and others from the biggest enemy of our mind called depression."
